Forbidden Plateau Survey Is Ordered As Park Preliminary Will Ascertain If Riches Accompany Glaciers and Lakes

D. C. Coleman Announces E. and N. Railway Will Immediately Examine Timber and Mineral Resources of Area; Inquiry Follows Courtenay Request That Forbidden Plateau Be Donated to People for Development as Pacific Coast Unit of Dominion Parks System.

The Forbidden Plateau will be surveyed forthwith by engineers of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway, to ascertain whether mineral or timber resources of commercial worth exist within its boundaries.

D. C. Coleman, president of the company and vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has notified the Courtenay Board of Trade that the survey has been ordered. The examination into the natural resources is preliminary to consideration of suggestions from the Courtenay Board of Trade that the area be granted to the people of British Columbia.

It is understood by the Courtenay Board of Trade that if this survey establishes that no great timber values are included within the area the railway company will transfer the Forbidden Plateau to the province for park purposes.

The Board of Trade has assurances that the Dominion Parks Board is desirous of establishing a Dominion Park on Vancouver Island. It is expected that the Parks Board will be willing to take over and develop this area, which combines the best features of high and low altitude and will form one of the most valuable links in the transcanada chain of Canadian national parks.

WETS BLAMED FOR BOMBING OF OHIO HOME

Ashtabul, Ohio, April 18.—Unidentified anti-prohibitionists were blamed by M. C. Robinson, prominent prohibition leader here, for the bombing of his palatial home early to-day. No one was injured and the damage was estimated at less than $500.

Robinson said he had been active in support of the prohibition laws. He said the only persons likely to have sought revenge were those enemies he had made through his prohibition activities. He had no proof of the identities of the bombers, however.

The bomb, with a time fuse, had been planted near a cellar window. The explosion tore out a part of the house's foundation, wrecked a part of one wall and broke many windows.

Seaplane May Operate From Courtenay Base

Leland B. Kirby Calls Public Meeting on Tuesday to Form Flying Company

Plane Would Be Boon to Logging Companies; Special Type Being Built

Special to The Times
Courtenay, April 18.—With the object of forming a company to finance the acquisition of a seaplane for operation out of Courtenay, a meeting has been called here on April 22.

Leland B. Kirby, who has been conducting a flying school here since last October, is interesting local people in the scheme.

Mr. Kirby, who has been building a low-winged monoplane to give the boys of the district practical experience, came here from Long Beach, Cal., having received his training at the Pacific Technical University and the Airtech School of Aviation.

GOOD FIELD
Mr. Kirby considers there is an excellent field here for the use of an aeroplane.

Above Campbell River there are numerous companies operating without roads and with slow and uncertain water transportation, who would save time and money by the use of a seaplane.

SPECIAL PLANE

The plane being built here by Mr. Kirby is from a conditional design with his own improvement on wing curve and centre sections to suit conditions here.

A high lift wing with small resistance is contemplated so as to provide for a machine with low landing speed.

BARGE WITH GASOLINE IS PREY OF FIRE

100,000 Gallons of Motor Fuel Go Up in Smoke Near Port Angeles To-day

Flames Rise 400 Feet in Air as Several Vessels Stand By

Port Angeles, Wash., April 18.—With 100,000 gallons of gasoline aboard, an oil barge of the Sunset Oil Company in tow of the tug Wilson was burned near here to-day off the mouth of the Elwha River.

The cutter Snobomish and two patrol boats left here for the fire, and earliest reports from the cutter indicated the entire cargo had been destroyed. It was not known how many men were on the barge, but the tug carried a crew of five. Snobomish officers reported no one was injured.

SEEN BY TUG CREW

Seattle, April 18.—Fire which destroyed a 100,000-gallon barge load of gasoline near Port Angeles to-day was seen by the crew of the tug Humacoma of Seattle at 3:30 a.m., a report received by the Seattle harbor radio department said.

The message said flames were shooting into the air to a height of from 250 to 400 feet, and a dense cloud of smoke told by witnesses. The tug did not go to the scene, the message explained, as several vessels could be seen standing by.

MAN WOUNDS WOMAN AND ENDS OWN LIFE

Chicago, April 18.—William Costello shot and seriously wounded his landlady, Mrs. Marjorie Ryan, in a twelfth floor room of a loop hotel last night and leaped to his death to the pavement below.

OLD CUSTOM

The bun-sellers who used to walk back and forth in Piccadilly Square and the towns surrounding London, carried huge baskets on their arms, and their descendants still follow the same practice. The buns are covered carefully with tannin and white cloth to keep them fresh and warm.

The custom of eating hot cross buns on Good Friday is as much a part of tradition as the proverbial pumpkin pie at Halloween.

Way back in 1713 Chelsea was already famous for its buns, which were sold at the Old Chelsea Bun House, in Jew's Row. On Good Friday morning sometimes as many as 50,000 people came to buy, and 240,000 were sold in one day.

Dying Man's Words Repeated to Court At Murder Hearing

Mrs. G. G. Waide Tells of Conversation With William Walker After Fatal Shooting at Albert Head on April 9; David Brotherston Is Committed for Trial on Charge of Murder.

David Brotherston, Albert Head, farmer and father of a family of five, was committed for trial on a charge of murder by Magistrate George Jay in Provincial Police Court yesterday afternoon. The charge arose out of the fatal shooting of William Walker, a laborer, in his cabin at Albert Head, on the evening of April 9.

The preliminary hearing lasted less than two hours, and throughout Brotherston sat with a fixed stare on his face, registering no emotion, even when conferring with his counsel. No defense evidence was entered and no statement was made by the accused on the committal.

Stuart Henderson appeared for the defence and A. M. Johnson, K.C., for the Crown.

A pathetic story of the dying moments of Walker, who said "he did not think a friend would do it," was told by witnesses. Speaking to Mrs. G. G. Waide, who comforted him in his agony, the dying man said the fatal shot was fired by Brotherston, she testified.

LARGE WOUND
Dr. John H. Moore, who performed the autopsy, was the first witness. He described Walker's body as that of a middle-aged, well-nourished man, five feet, seven inches in height and 160 pounds in weight. The fatal shot had caused a wound two inches by three inches in the abdomen and was from left to right, slightly upwards in direction. Three wounds from the shot that were found on the surface of the body were exhibited.

Staff Sergeant Robert Owens testified regarding the identity of the body on which the autopsy was performed. For twenty years he had known Walker, who lived at different parts of the Sooke and Metchoin districts, he said. Frank G. Waide, Metchoin farmer, on whose property the Walker home was situated, said that Brotherston, who lived about one-quarter of a mile away, had come to him about 6:15 o'clock on April 9 and told him Walker was shot. After phoning for a doctor he went down to Walker's house and saw him lying on the floor in a doorway between the kitchen and a passage-way. He helped Brotherston to put the injured man on a bed and undressed him.

At that time Walker said, "I didn't think a friend would do it." After returning to his own house to telephone regarding an ambulance, (Continued on Page 14)

GLIDER TO FLY HERE ON MAY 10

First in Province Will Be Launched From Airfield By A. G. Bolton

Machine Made in Vancouver Said to Be Fool Proof; Is Aviation Aid

The first glider to fly above British Columbia will be catapulted into the air from the Lansdowne Road flying field on May 10, with A. G. Bolton, bursar of the University School, at the controls.

The machine, which will be a primary type of German design, is being built in the Aero School of Vancouver, and will be delivered to this city on May 7. It will be the first constructed in the Province and will cost approximately $500.

The glider was ordered by Mr. Bolton in order to interest the youth of the city and to encourage them to become air-minded. If this objective is accomplished, Mr. Bolton stated, he hoped to be able to induce a flying school to operate in the city.

In company with eight other flying men of the city, Mr. Bolton formed a club to secure the machine, and will give it its first trial shortly after its arrival. The glider will be launched by means of a catapult and elastic cord, operated by a crew of seven.

FOOL PROOF

Its chief asset, as far as encouraging aviation, will lie in the fact that it will be virtually "fool-proof." In speaking of the machine, Mr. Bolton pointed out the fact that 85 per cent of all casualties were caused by tail spins due to the heaviness of aeroplane engines. Since there will be no weight in the front of the machine, there will be little danger of this, he added, saying that the glider would flatten itself out of a stall in fifteen feet. This would practically eliminate any chance of it diving into the ground, Mr. Bolton added.

EIGHT FACE SENTENCE ON LIQUOR COUNT

Convictions For Conspiracy to Violate U.S. Prohibition Law

New York, April 18.—The Columbia County Cereal Beverage Company Inc., of Hudson, N.Y., and eight of its men on trial with it were found guilty by a federal jury last night of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

The verdict concluded a trial which lasted two weeks. In the course of the trial testimony was given concerning an alleged meeting in a hotel between three brewery representatives and Palmer Canfield, former prohibition administrator in Albany and now an adviser to the Wickham law enforcement committee.

Joseph E. Walsh, political leader of Newburgh, N.Y., and president of the brewery company, whose trial has been severed, testified he had been told that $10,000 or $20,000 disappeared from a table when the brewery men attending the conference left it there and went to the room. Canfield later issued a permit for the manufacture of cereal beverage by the company.

Canfield has issued a denial of the testimony implicating him. He said he was in Washington at the time of the alleged conference with the brewery men here. He said several other persons besides the administrator passed on near beer permits.

The men convicted are liable to fines of $10,000 or imprisonment for two years, and the corporation to a $10,000 fine. Sentence will be passed May 5.

NOVA SCOTIANS ARE TO INCREASE APPLE INDUSTRY

Halifax, N.S., April 18.—The Royal commission investigating the apple industry in Nova Scotia yesterday completed its public hearings.

Dr. H. M. Tory, chairman, said full reports of the evidence tendered by some 175 witnesses would be studied separately by the commissioners, who would meet later to discuss the various problems. Dr. Tory will later make a personal investigation of the apple industry.

ALDOUS WINS ROAD RACE IN SPEEDY TIME

Y.M.C.A. Runner Clips Two Minutes From Time Set By Winner Last Year

Fred Leoffler and Lorne McGregor Winners of Junior Events

Maintaining a steady pace over the complete eight-mile course, Frank Aldous, Y.M.C.A. marathoner, captured first honors in the Good Friday road race feature, for the C.V.V.A. Cup, staged by the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion to-day.

He completed the distance in 52 minutes, 8 and 3-5 seconds. The time, though better than last year, was not a record.

Cezar Finnemore, last year's winner, sprinted to the finish three minutes behind the winner for second position, and led a cheer for Aldous. G. E. Rutten, running unattached, crossed the line third, a minute and one-half after Finnemore, while J. Howard finished half a minute later with Albert Lee of the Garrison 300 yards behind him.

Fred Leoffler, also carrying the Y.M.C.A. colors, won the junior race and the Times-Cup in 29 minutes, 31 4-5 seconds. Ian MacDonald was second and Jack Lavers third.

In the juvenile division, Lorne McGregor forged ahead at the finish to beat Bill Spanish of the "Y" for the Hinchliffe trophy in 18 minutes, 57 and 4-5 seconds. Mitchell Att finished third.

Breaking away with the gun, Finnemore led the field in the senior race for the first mile, where Frank Aldous passed him. Aldous rounded the turning point at the Four Mile Hill first and had a good 300-yard lead over Finnemore at the Crawford Bridge on the home stretch. He kept up a steady pace and was never seriously challenged.

Earth Tremors Rock South Greece Parts

Athens, Greece, April 18.—Several earthquake shocks which rocked the Peloponnese (Mores) during the night did extensive damage in several small inland towns. Athens and the Piraeus were shaken badly, and there was great alarm among crowds of Holy Thursday worshippers in the churches.

Several persons were injured, one seriously, in the collapse of a church tower at Istina, and a number were hurt at Corinth through the collapse of several houses. At Sparta a church tower fell, but there were no casualties.

The centre of the shocks was between the Methana Peninsula, and Argolis. The most severe were recorded in the Peloponnese and the island of Euboea.

YOUNG VICTORIA TURNS AIR-MINDED EN MASSE

Miss Grace Smith of the teaching staff of the Victoria High School and Vivien Shoemaker, boys' work secretary of the Y.M.C.A., started it to-day young Victoria is headed air-mindedward as a result of the great success of the Victoria Model Aircraft League.

What the league is doing will be told in a special full-page feature story in the Magazine Section of The Victoria Times to-morrow.

The article will be illustrated by pictures of some of the most active members of the league, and of the aircraft they have turned out.

Other features of the Magazine Section to-morrow will include: Robert Connell explores Highland glens and lochs in nearby hills. How Koksalat at one time might have become a prosperous town, but missed its opportunity.

Canadian Press
Los Angeles, April 18.—Plans for a west-to-east Pacific plane flight, Tokio to Seattle, within two months were announced here to-day.

Charles F. Rochville, vice-president of the Emco Aircraft Corporation, said there would be a non-refueling endurance flight next week in Emco's new "flying wing" monoplane in an effort to better the German record of 65 hours, 20 minutes. Long Beach, Cal., would be the scene of the flight.

Immediately following the endurance flight, Rochville said the plane would be crated and shipped to Tokio, Japan, from which place it was planned it would take off within a month on a non-stop flight to Seattle, Washington.

Rochville, a veteran pilot, said he would be at the controls on the Japan-to-America hop. A co-pilot has not been named.

The plane, the only one of its kind in the world, is unique in that its motor, a 300-horsepower Junior Wasp, and two open cockpits are contained in a nacelle or body, which extends only two feet behind the nine-foot-wing. The plane has a wing-spread of sixty feet. The rudder and elevators which control the ship while in flight are suspended twenty-four feet back of the wing and nacelle by two outriggers made of duralium.

Rochville yesterday made a successful test flight with the company's airport, at Downey, Cal.

TO LEARN OF CANADIANS AND BRITONS

Patriotic Propaganda Will Feature New B.C. School Magazine

Traditions and History of Province Will Also Be Told

Vancouver, April 18.—British Columbia school children are going to be told they are the progeny of no inferior people. And they are going to be told this fact regularly and frequently. They are going to be given many opportunities to realize the British people still are, in many ways, the leading people of the earth. Propaganda along these lines soon will be in circulation among the school children of the Province, circulated by the Provincial Department of Education. Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Provincial Minister of Education, unfolded the plan to members of the Lions' Club Branch of the Canadian Legion in the Odd Fellows Hall on Wednesday night.

GIVEN TO EVERY SCHOLAR
To achieve this end, an attractively written and illustrated school magazine is to be given to every school child in the Province each month, starting next August. The necessary appropriation for the purpose already has been made, Mr. Hinchliffe stated. For this magazine articles are being prepared by eminent British Columbia citizens upon the natural life of the Province, the Indian traditions of the Province and the history of the Province, he explained.

Other articles will explain British traditions, British privileges and British responsibilities. Accomplishments of Canadians and Britons in various lines of endeavor also will be emphasized, Mr. Hinchliffe added.

LACK OF KNOWLEDGE
There was lack of knowledge of these things among the people of the Province at present, he pointed out. The lack was noticeable among grown-ups as it was apparent among the children, he declared. Few people in the Province seemed to be aware that the telephone—and electric heating—were the results of Canadian genius, or that a Canadian, Cunard, built and sent the first steamer across the Atlantic.

At present, he asserted, supplementary readers in use in the schools here to-day, while adequate for the practical purpose of teaching pupils how to read, carried propaganda emphasizing ideas of the greatness of the United States. Splendid for the country for which these books were prepared, he added, but hardly the thing for school children of British Columbia. He cited several definite cases to substantiate his claim.

Winnipeg, April 18.—Two persons were injured and a building was partially wrecked as the result of two explosions in widely-scattered parts of this city yesterday.

When a compressor tank exploded at the Memorial-Marble and Tile plant on Wall Street, Fred Michael, a workman, was injured. A section of the roof and a wall of the structure were blown out.

A mysterious explosion at a Bell Avenue residence caused injury to Mrs. Mary Patterson, a visitor at the house. Police, however, refused to divulge the nature of the blast, nor could information be obtained from residents of the house. Mrs. Patterson suffered superficial burns to her face, chest and arms.

MAN FREED AND BANDITS CAUGHT

Vera Cruz, Mexico, April 18.—Leonard B. Cassidy, United States employee of the Transcontinental Fruit Company, arrived here yesterday freed from captivity of thirty hours in the hands of a group of bandits. Six men who kidnaped him were captured by the troops of Gen. Gonzalez at Paparanza, near Tuxtepec. They were turned over to the civil authorities.

CAPONE HOME CARETAKER IS FOUND GUILTY

Plane and Train Rush Man To Bedside of Son

Chicago, April 18.—Battling bad weather conditions and unforeseen delays, O. M. Green of Olympia, Wash., a banker, won his forty-eight-hour race with death yesterday when he arrived from his home on the west side of the city to the bedside of his son, Joseph, who lies critically ill in St. Joseph's Hospital here.

The boy, a student at Culver Military Academy, is suffering from a brain abscess. He had been sinking and doctors held but little hope of his recovery. Green left Seattle Tuesday in a chartered plane, battling fog and rain and the plane was forced down at North Platte, where he caught a train on which he completed the trip here.

CAPONE HOME CARETAKER IS FOUND GUILTY

Convicted of Possession of Liquor at Miami, Florida

Miami, Fla., April 18.—Frankie Newton, one of the reported caretakers of "Scarface" Al Capone's winter residence at Miami Beach, was convicted of possession of liquor by a criminal court jury here yesterday.

John Capone, arrested with Newton during a March 20 raid on the Capone home, when a quantity of liquor was seized, went on trial at a night court session immediately after the jury had reported on the Newton case. He also was charged with possession of liquor. Charges of vagrancy against Albert Capone, brother of Al, "Diamond Lou" Cowen, publisher of a Cicero newspaper, and L. J. Brennan, of vagrancy growing out of the Capone home raid, were delayed pending the filing of other information by the state.

Judge W. F. Brown denied motions to quash the cases against the defendants. Sentence of Newton was automatically delayed for four days when his counsel served notice of intent to file a motion for a new trial.

Mother's Time Off!

Bobby's asleep! A sound, restful sleep after a round of hard play. But this sleep can only come if Bobby's feeding of milk—the all essential food—has been completely absorbed and easily digested. Nestlé's Evaporated Milk has been the answer to this problem for thousands of grateful Mothers.

And here's the Reason! Nestlé's Evaporated Milk is just the best of fresh cow's milk with part of the water removed—then sealed and sterilized in air-tight containers. Add water again and you have absolutely pure, safe milk—but more readily digestible than ordinary milk because the large fat globules of the milk have been broken up into small ones of the same size as in Mother's milk. Also, the curds which form in the stomach when Nestlé's Evaporated Milk is used are soft and flaky and therefore easily digestible.

Use Nestlé's Evaporated Milk for Your Baby. Use it in coffee—in cocoa—in tea. Use it in all cooking and as a beverage by diluting with one to two parts water.

EDITOR'S WIDOW LOSES BIG SUIT

Mrs. J. S. Scripps Sought to Recover $6,000,000 From Estate

Cincinnati, April 18.—Mrs. Josephine S. Scripps, Miramar, Cal., widow of James G. Scripps, former editor-in-chief of the Scripps chain of newspapers, lost her appeal to the United States circuit court of appeals yesterday when that court affirmed the decision of the district court here in dismissing her suit against her brother-in-law, Robert Raine Scripps, Westchester, Ohio, executor and trustee of the late Edward W. Scripps, multi-millionaire publisher.

In her action Mrs. Scripps sought to recover approximately $6,000,000 she alleged was due her late husband from his father's estate under an agreement with the father to share in the profits and increased value of the newspapers and allied businesses of E. W. Scripps for the years 1908 to 1920. This agreement she contended, was made by the elder Scripps when her late husband assumed active management of the combined Scripps properties.

The district court held that while there was an agreement, it was all subject to the will of the father who has final say as to what, if any, interest the son would be awarded in the profits and increment of the newspaper chain and that it was not a legal contract binding upon either the father or son.

Circuit Judges Denison, Moorman and Hicks considered the case, Moorman and Hicks concurring in the majority opinion. Judge Denison, dissenting, expressed the opinion that "arrangement" between the father and son, as interpreted by their conduct, was contractual and that after the death of the father undisputed questions arising under it could be decided by the courts.

MAN WHO LIVED AS WOMAN WEDS

Former "Maid" Marries Nurse in Institution Where He Worked

London, April 18.—After masquerading as a woman for over twenty years and being employed for a number of years as a "maid," Montague Evan Burt has been married at the Wesleyan Church at Tisbury by special license to Miss Sarah Matilda Edwards, a nurse in the institution where he formerly worked as a "maid."

Plans had been made for a wedding at Easter, but in order to avoid embarrassing crowds it was decided to defer the date and keep the arrangements as secret as possible.

Not even the bride's sister was admitted to her confidence until half an hour before the time of the ceremony.

Even so, the news spread quickly and soon after the bride and bridegroom had driven to the church—where Burt formerly sang as a member of the women's choir and had preached as "Miss Evelyn Burt"—crowds began to gather.

The couple cannot have a prolonged honeymoon until Mrs. Burt's contract with the institution expires, but they hope to go away for a day or two, and eventually settle down at Tisbury.

"We want to be forgotten," said Mrs. Burt, "to be left alone happy together, as I am sure we shall be. We have nothing to be ashamed of, but it was not pleasant to be the subject of so much curiosity as we have experienced of late."

The Langford District Girl Guides will parade and attend Easter service at 11 o'clock in St. John's Church, C. Wood, every member is requested to be present.

GENEROUS GIFTS TO HOSPITAL

Jubilee Board Receives Cash and Equipment; March Record Month

Two generous donations, one of $200 from the Vulcan Iron Works, Vancouver, to be used in connection with the new nurses' home, the other, from an anonymous friend, of a latest model electro-cardiograph for measuring and photographing the action of the heart, were acknowledged with grateful thanks at the meeting of the board of directors of the Jubilee Hospital last evening. The cardiograph will be installed next week.

RECORD MONTH Last month was the busiest in the history of the institution. This consisted of a record, and once more justified the heavy expenditure which has been made necessary with the opening of the new nurses' home, which has released accommodation for seventy-five patients' beds in the Strathcona, Fleming and McBride wards.

In reporting concerning the reconditioning of these wards, the lady superintendent, Miss Mitchell, called attention to the additions to the nursing staff which would become necessary with the increased hospital accommodation. The board gave instructions to the building committee to proceed without delay with the design and reconditioning of this part of the hospital, the urgency of the conditions being emphasized owing to the fact that the hospital was, as reports indicated, taxed to its capacity.

Reports showed that laboratory and X-ray departments in the hospital had also experienced a very busy month. The per diem cost for March was $3.14 per patient, or, including laboratory and X-ray, $3.66. This, it was stated, was a considerable reduction when compared with the corresponding months last year.

Tentative arrangements were made for the annual graduation exercises, the dates assigned for these being as follows: Baccalaureate sermon, May 11; graduation, May 14; annual dance for nurses, May 15.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

IS BABY'S BATH A STRUGGLE, OR SPLASH AND GURGLE?

Baby's daily bath usually takes place one-half hour before his second morning feeding. It remains with the mother whether it will be a daily bath or a struggle or a period of splash and gurgle.

All preparations for the bath should be completed before baby is taken from his bed. The water is drawn and the bath thermometer sunk into it to give an accurate idea of whether we are intending to wash baby or perchance scald him. The mother's hand is a poor index of the water's heat and twenty-five cent thermometer will end all guessing. For the tiny baby 98 to 100 degrees is right; 98 to 99 for the older child.

In the toilet basket will be absorbent cotton, mineral oil, a bottle of salt water (one pint water and one teaspoon of salt boiled and bottled), gasoline, or other water, white soap, squares of cheesecloth and a can of baby powder.

Put a thick pad on the table or bed; put tub beside it and clothes in the order they are to be used; and toilet basket within reach.

HANDLE BABY GENTLY

Undress baby, handling him gently. The heavy-handed mother who pulls off baby's sleeves, and twists his tender arms, soon has baby screaming his natural resentment and injury, and the bath is started all wrong.

Wrap baby in a Turkish towel. Wash face with clear water and wipe dry. Put a drop of mineral oil on a lightly twisted rod of cotton and drop in each nostril. Do this quickly and don't poke at baby's nose. He hates it. The crusts will soften and later can be wiped out into the water gently. The towel will cover the bottom of the tub softly. Rinse him off, letting him splash and kick. If he is old enough, a few celluloid tub toys will keep him busy. Rub creases lightly with mineral oil or powder, depending upon whether his skin is oily or dry. Dress him in only a few garments so that he may take that long nap for which you have been preparing him.

TUB TOYS KEEP HIM HAPPY

Dip clean bits of cotton in salt water and wipe each eye from the inner to outer edge of eyelid. If there is any secretion in the eye this needs medical attention and is not to be treated at home. This may be a serious infection. Wash the outside but do not touch the inside of the ears.

Soap baby all over following these preliminaries and slip him into the tub. If he is manifestly afraid of being plunged into the water, stretch a towel over the top of the tub and ease him into the water gently. The towel will cover the bottom of the tub softly. Rinse him off, letting him splash and kick. If he is old enough, a few celluloid tub toys will keep him busy. Rub creases lightly with mineral oil or powder, depending upon whether his skin is oily or dry. Dress him in only a few garments so that he may take that long nap for which you have been preparing him.

FATHER AND SON IN FINE RECITAL

Rodolphe and Lucien Plamondon Delight Audience at Empress Hotel

Concluding an interesting series of British and Canadian concertos sponsored by the Canadian Pacific Railway, Rodolphe and Lucien Plamondon, French-Canadian artists, appeared in recital at the Empress Hotel yesterday evening before a large audience. The well-arranged programme included vocal groups by Rodolphe Plamondon and cello numbers by his son, Lucien.

The elder Plamondon in his three groups, revealed a fine tenor voice, which, although somewhat lacking in warmth and flexibility, is used with intelligence, and his interpretations were marked by imaginative delicacy, notably in the recitative and air, "When I Am Laid in Earth," from Purcell's "Dido and Aeneas," and Monty's "My Lovely Cello." This first group also included Purcell's sprightly "Nymphs and Shepherds," and "The Road" (Armstrong), both admirably sung.

In the second group, in French, the singer's closer acquaintance with the language probably accounted for the noticeable relaxation which lent greater warmth to his tone and more flexibility than was apparent in his first group. His first number, "La Maison," was one of his own compositions, a delightful bit of melody. Others in the group included Gagnon's "Rondeau," Renaud's "Chanson de Fortunio" and the gay, joyous "Les Papillons" (Lestourneau), which was perhaps the outstanding number on the programme.

"A Roman Tale" (Battie); "Brittany" (Farrar), sung with tender sentiment; Sanderson's "You Golden Eyes," and "Adieu Marie" (Adams), comprised the final vocal group, each being marked by artistic interpretations and musical understanding.

SON SHOWS PROMISE

Lucien Plamondon, son of the singer, shows rare promise as a cellist. Throughout his three groups, his playing revealed luscious tone and depth of feeling, coupled with adequate technical equipment. The Handel Sonata and the Elgar concerto for violoncello and piano were notable for brilliance of execution and interpretation, while in the latter group his "Drum to Me Only With Tunes By" played with appealing sentiment, the haunting "Elegie," composed by his father, and the humorous "Bonny Wee Marie" met with loud acclaim. The audience insisted upon an encore of the latter number, which was notable for its facile bowing.

Miss Helen Manny, a pianist of unusual attainment, lent brilliant and sympathetic support at the piano throughout the programme.

Girl Recruit to Building Trade Explains Why

London, April 18.—Margaret Mercer, a twenty-two-year-old blonde, is the latest addition to the ranks of the building trade in London. Margaret has just passed her final examinations at the London County Council School of Building at Stratford, where she was one of two women students among 1,300 men.

Women seem to have more or less free access to everything except building," she said. "Everybody has said that my ambition to be a builder, as my father and grandfather before me, was a peculiar ambition, but I simply can't see it." She admits that there are a few snags in feminine pursuit of the practical work of the trade—bricklaying, painting and plumbing. So she is content to remain in the executive and directive end of the work.

Pitchers Showing Decided Edge In Opening Fixtures

THE PROFESSIONAL golf picture in the United States, which has been changing rapidly in recent years, is quite apt to become more stable in 1930 with a new cast speaking the lines and taking the bows in 1930, the first five leaders in the U.S. open championship held at Brae Burn in Massachusetts were Walter Hagen, Mike Brady, Jack Hutchinson, Tom McNamee and George McLean. Five years ago, at Oakland Hills, the half dozen who held the top positions was made up of Cyril Walker, Bobby Jones, Bill Mitchell, Bobby Cruikshank, Walter Hogen and Macdonald Smith.

Passing over another five years span to Winged Foot in 1929, we find the field topped by Bobby Jones, Al Espinosa, Gene Sarazen, Fred Hunter, Rex Toney, Armour and George Von Elm. Jones and Von Elm are amateurs, hence, despite their persistence in protruding into the sacred land of golf, we will set them aside in this discussion of the pros.

Of the salaried shotmakers who were in the van of the parade over Westchester's rolling meadows last spring, Sarazen was just making ready to take the jump from the caddy-master ranks ten years ago. Espinosa was a youngster showing flashes of promise now and then; Armour was not to rise to the top until eight years later and Shute was unheard of except in a strictly local sense.

In addition, we read in the summary of the last U.S. open, the names of Horton Smith, Henry Colclough, Craig Wood, Tony Monero and Leo Diegel. Mention of none of these would have excited a flicker of recognition ten years back. At the time they were had not yet learned the mysteries of the pitch and run game or their fame was confined to some obscure locker room.

This spring, however, finds the Smiths, the Colcloughs, the Shutes, the Hagens, the Hutchisons and Bradys seek to hang on as best they can, content to linger on the borderline between fame and mediocrity for the crumbs the youngsters overlook in their hurry toward the high places.

Last year witnessed the blooming of Horton Smith. This year already has been made memorable by the coming out party in honor of Denny Shute. One is from Missouri, the other calls Ohio his home and both are of the ultra-modern type of professional golfer whose interest in golf do not extend farther than the eighteen hole. The old crowd also did very well on the nineteenth. It was great fun while it lasted, but it raised a merry time with the delicate shots which had to be made the following day.

Smith, to whom a missed putt is a major disaster, heads the winter tournament winners with victories in the Oregon, Berkeley, Pasadena, Savannah and Central Florida opens, five in all.

Sarazen's string is three. Miami, Florida West Coast and the fabulously rich Agua Caliente event. Shute and Craig Wood came next with two. Denny having taken first money at Los Angeles and San Antonio and Wood at Oklahoma City and Honolulu. Tony Manero, Olin Dutra, Joe Kirkwood, Dick Linaker, Al Espinosa, Johnny Farrell and Jack Collins won a single event apiece. Kirkwood, Espinosa and Farrell are known wherever the game has taken root. Collins, a veteran from Dayton, O., is not so well known. The other three you would have trouble identifying just at the name of the Roland Hancock, caught the public off guard two years ago when it was almost enshrined among the holders of the open title.

One looks in vain for such old standbys as Jim Barnes, or Freddy McIntosh, or George Sargent. They have almost ceased entirely to figure in the present day scheme of things.

When the clans gather at Interlachen in July to attempt to wrest the wreath from the tattered head of Bobby Jones, goldom will stand agape if the little passerby to a man whose years number many more than thirty. When Horton Smith overhauled Jones and beat him at Savannah not long ago, he was warning that a new generation is ready to step out, one that is calm of nerve and strong of body, one that fears neither man nor trap. The old school, thoroughly dominated by the Rolands, is about ready to give up completely. The baton may be handed over this year.

There were four sets of brothers with National League teams in the south this year: The Waners, with the Pies; John and Vince Sherlock with the Phils; Ernest and Paul Orsatti with the St. Louis Cards; and Lance and Ed Riechbourg with the Boston Braves.

When a pitcher is easy to hit or a batter is soft for the pitcher, he is known as a "cousin." The little haven't been awarded, but we think Lefty Grove and Lefty O'Doul should be called mothers-in-law.

Somewhere stole Primo Carnera's shoes in Los Angeles. Probably some amateur gardener with a flair for fancy window boxes.

Homer Summa Is Released By A's To Portland Club

Philadelphia, April 18.—Homer Summa, veteran outfielder, was released by the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday to the Portland Club of the Pacific Coast League.

Summa was bought by the Athletics last year from Cleveland. He played in thirty-seven games in 1929 and batted .372. His release reduces the Athletics list of outfielders to five.

Rushed Into Game in Second Half Winnipeg Forward Scores Eight Points to Give Toilers 17-16 Victory in First Game for Western Canada Basketball Championship; Wally Mayers Stars for Coast Champions; Second Game Saturday Night; Total Points to Decide Title.

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, April 18.—New Westminster Adanacs, champions of basketball in Canada, were brought to a halt yesterday evening in their headlong rush from British Columbia toward the 1930 basketball final on the far side of the Dominion. The Pacific Coast quintette, which has humbled the titleholders of Alberta and Saskatchewan en route eastward, lost to Y.M.C.A. Toilers of Winnipeg, 17-16, in the first match of a two-game series for western honors. Total points on the two games will decide the series.

LIGHTER GOLF BALL TO SOON BECOME ORDER

Some Well-known Golfers Like New Pellet, While Others Are Against It

Will Take Considerable Yardage From Drives; Cyril Tooley Likes It

New York, April 17.—Just one more season. That is all the life left in the far-flying, highly popular 1.62 golf ball with which golfers are now playing.

One more season and then a change to a bigger, somewhat lighter ball. Some who have played with the ball, decreed to become standard in 1931, like it. Others do not.

Johnny Goodman, who beat Bobby Jones in the last United States amateur championship and then disappeared, gives this new ball just about three years. He is not speaking officially. It is merely Johnny Goodman's opinion.

Cyril Tooley likes it. He thought it a decided improvement over the old ball, inasmuch as it demanded a great deal more accuracy in hitting.

Bob Jones has little to say in one way or the other. Being an official of the U.S.G.A., he is not speaking properly. He does not think it will make a great deal of difference for the good and simple reason that all the golfers will be using it.

Wolcast to Meet Frankie Genaro In Title Fight

New York, April 18.—"Midget" Wolcast, Philadelphia youngster, recognized in New York State as the flyweight champion, agreed yesterday to defend his title against Frankie Genaro, New York boxer, hailed as champion in this class by the National Boxing Association, in a fifteen-round match May 28 in Madison Square Garden.

FOXY PHANN Never cash a check for a man who lacks balance

MISS ALICE WEBB OF PERKINS FIRM, NEW YORK SAYS: "OUR ONE LANGUAGE, BUT HE'S FAMILIAR WITH MANY TONGUES."

To the squad showing the higher score at the close of the series second game on Saturday night will go the right to travel to Wolfville, N.S., for the Canadian final. The western champions will clash with Acadia University, winner of the eastern championship by virtue of defeating Windsor Collegiate Institute Alumni by two points on a two-game round.

WOOLLEY IS STAR

Slender victory came to the Toilers yesterday because Lanky Ian Woolley ran wild in a rousing last half. At the interval, the Winnipeggers were down by 10-6. Woolley glided on to the floor, sank two baskets and a pair of four tosses to put the Toilers ahead, 12-10.

The Toilers rallied to the fore, but another Woolley basket, evened the score and one of his mates saluted away the one-point win.

Though Woolley's meteoric dash to count eight points in the second period was the contest's most brilliant feature, Wally Mayers, chubby coast forward, edged easily into the limelight. Mayers was outscored by Max Shiles and "Chick" Hood, who counted six and five to his four points, but the elusive southpaw ranged all sections of the floor in mastery style.

Efficient guard work by the Manitobans, as much as any item in their play, brought their win. Big Al Silverthorne, blonde captain of the Toilers, split up plenty of the Adanacs' attacks, and even took time off to annex five points included in his basket-budged was a pretty score on Woolley's rebound to put the Toilers up just at the last bell. Little Bill Thorogood mated systematically with the towering Thorogood guard, Woolley 8, Shea, Clifford—17.

Play was particularly clean, only aggressive Wally Mayers collecting three personal fouls.

If the Toilers can hold their lead Saturday night they will hurry immediately half-way across Canada to the east—and if the Adanacs can overcome the one-point lead, they will continue their cross-continent trek unhaltered.

The teams and individual scores were:

New Westminster—W. Mayers 4, Shiler 4, forwards; McEwan, Miller, Butler, Fraser 1, guards; Hood 5, center; H. Mayer 10.

Winnipeg—Walkey 1, Wilson, forwards; Phillips 3, center; Silverthorne 8, Thorogood, guards; Woolley 8, Shea, Clifford—17.

MEETS HAWKES Great Combination Work Gives Boston Victory and Series

Hockey Season at Vancouver Ends in Blaze of Glory With Bruins Turning in Dazzling Performance to Win Third and "Rubber" Game of Post-season Series, 4-3; Furious Rally of Lions in Last Period All But Ties Up Score; Hec Kilrea Plays Well and Scores Two Goals.

Canadian Press

Vancouver, April 18.—The 1929-30 hockey season as far as Vancouver is concerned wound up in a blaze of glory yesterday evening when Boston Bruins, champions of the American section of the National Hockey League, took a 4-3 decision from the local Lions, Pacific Coast League titleholders, in the third and deciding game of their post-season exhibition series. The game was a fitting climax to the series, which provided Vancouver fans with hockey at its best.

The Bruins' superiority yesterday evening lay in their well-nigh perfect combination attacks which had the local defence guessing throughout. Time after time in the second period especially, the smooth-working visitors drifted through the local defence for dangerous shots on goal. Their four goals were scored on similar sorters, three of them in the middle frame.

Each team scored one goal in the first period, Boston got three in the second without reply from their opponents, and then the Lions gave the 9,000 spectators a treat by staging a furious rally which netted two goals and all but tied the score.

Parante said he was willing to pay Carnera the same as before, a guarantee of $10,000, or 50 per cent. The commission, in its investigation, has made it plain that the fighters were blameless for Monday's affair and that each was doing his best.

CARNERA MAY BE REMATCHED

Oakland, Cal., April 18.—An offer to rematch Primo Carnera, giant Italian, and Leon Chevalier, San Francisco negro, was made yesterday by Louis Parante, Oakland promoter, who put on Monday night's bout between the pair.

Carnera won the first, stopping Chevalier in the sixth round, but the result met with much disfavor, as one of the seconds of the negro threw in the towel just at a time when his man was not in bad condition. The State Athletic Commission is investigating rumors of a fixed fight.

Dode Bercot Is Matched to Meet Lost Angeles Boy

Seattle, April 18.—Dode Bercot will meet Jimmy Doland, welterweight of Los Angeles, in the semi-final to the Doc Spaul-Wildcat Carter bout at the Ice Arena, Friday, April 20.

Bercot has been moving down all opposition recently, defeating Primo McGale, Brile Campagno and Cee Geyard during the past month. Doland made a big hit, with local fans when he triumphed Frankie Rogers so easily in a six-round bout.

Drumman and Waterman have announced that they are backing up the Carter-Doland tilt with a programme of six-round bouts that will bring to either some of the best boxing talent in the northwest. They are seeking a worthy opponent for Freddie Steele, the Tacoma youngster who has been beating all comers of late.

First Few Days of Major League Campaign Outstanding Exception to Rule With Hurlers Giving Sluggers a Merry Time; So Far Four Pitchers Have Turned in Three-hit Games, While Larry Weeks, Pittsburgh Left-hander, Let Cincinnati Down With Two Scattered Blows Yesterday; Weather Cancels Many Games.

In theory, the early part of the baseball season is when the batters have the edge over the pitchers, but the first few days of the 1930 major league campaign have provided an outstanding exception to this rule.

Few of the scattered games which have escaped the rain and cold so far have brought any heavy hitting, while five—one-third of the total number played—have been distinct triumphs for the hurlers. Four moundmen have allowed their opponents only three hits and one two-hit game turned up yesterday.

On the opening day Lloyd Brown of Washington, limited the Boston Red Sox to three blows and Lester Sweetland of the Philadelphia Nationals repeated the feat against Brooklyn.

Larry Weeks, Pittsburgh left-hander, outdid them all yesterday in holding the Cincinnati Reds to one single and a home run, while the Pirates drove ancient Eppa Rixey from the mound and gained a 7-1 triumph. Ethan Allen, Cincinnati outfielder, got the homer in the ninth inning and provided the only occasion on which a red leg reached second base. French himself took part of the edge off his feet by giving five bases on balls.

Earl Wainman, Detroit, and Pat Malone of the Chicago Cubs were yesterday's three-hit pitchers, with the St. Louis representatives, the Browns and the Cardinals as their victims in abbreviated contests.

TWO HOME RUNS

In Detroit the Tigers were stopped by rain after five and one-half innings, but beat the Browns 6 to 1, on White-bell's hurrying and homers by Marty McManus and Dale Alexander.

Chicago Cubs, lacking Rogers Hornsby and Charley Grimm, who were kept out to give slight injuries a rest, scored three times in six innings, while Malone held the St. Louis Cardinals helpless with his speed ball for a shutout victory. Rain stopped the game after the Cubs had scored again in the seventh, but the run did not count.

River Stephenson was the outstanding Chicago player, getting a home run, and two doubles in three trips to the plate.

The Chicago White Sox opened their season with a ten-inning victory over the Cleveland Indians, 5 to 1. As 25,000 fans looked on the Sox staged their one big inning in the sixth to get a 3-1 lead. Budin and Walker, Cleveland tied it up in the ninth, but in the extra inning Jablonowski halted Clesell and hit Reynolds with a pitched ball and Metzler doubled to bring in the winning run.

City Softball League Draws Fine Entry List

Bobby Jones On Golf

In every sport, and I suppose in almost every other line of endeavor it is hard to separate and recognize the qualities which distinguish the great from the near great—the men who succeed from those who just can't quite make it. In golf this little difference, as telling as it is, is yet so small that it is difficult to see how it can be a definite advantage.

I remember reading in an English newspaper after I had won the British Open at St. Andrews, an editorial which made a point of how slight a margin of superiority was shown by the winner of a tournament over the rest of the field. In this particular championship, I had won by the greatest margin I had ever had yet, as the editorial pointed out, my advantage of six strokes, however big it may have looked, when reduced to percentages read only 3.163 per cent, or one and one-half strokes in each round in which an average of a little less than seventy-two strokes was used.

I suppose it is a consideration of a slender margin such as this that leads J. H. Taylor to say that the difference between a winner and the near-winner is the ability on the part of the successful contestant to be over on the lookout against himself. Never too certain of what the result may be, he never plays a shot carelessly or with over confidence.

AVERAGE COUNTS

In competition, I have never regarded seriously the tendency of some people to endeavor certain golfers with superhuman powers. Because on occasions certain players have staged spectacular finishes to retrieve a victory by a last-minute rally, I have heard it said of them that they are able to pull off whatever is necessary to win. Such an idea is absurd, for if these men were capable of playing golf as they would they would never place themselves in a position where they had to beat par to win. And when I hear someone criticized for "cracking" at the finish, I always think of the query which Grantland Rice propounded at Scioto—whether it were better to blow up in the third round or the fourth. Every player has his bad patches in any seventy-two hole journey. It is mainly a question of who averages up the best over the entire route, and that I think is the feature that the winner remembers and the field forgets.

EACH SHOT IMPORTANT

When we begin to think in terms of the English editorial I have referred to, we must see the importance of each stroke, whether it be drive, approach or putt. And we ought to see also that a medal round to hold a long putt for a six is just as good as if it were for a three. It is every shot that counts.

In defining the difference between the great and the near-great, J. H. Taylor pointed out, a lesson for every golfer. He was not merely explaining why some fine golfers win championships and others equally fine do not. He was telling you why you missed that easy putt to the fourth green yesterday and why, after you had missed your second shot to the eighth, you took a seven instead of the five you should have had if you had played sensibly. All of us from duffers to champions would do better if we would play each shot as a thing to itself.

MAJOR RALPH CASSE, WHO SUCCEEDS BIFF JONES AS FOOTBALL COACH AT WEST POINT, PLAYED FOUR YEARS ON THE ARMY SQUAD BUT NEVER WON HIS LETTER.

When Gotch Wrestled "Pack-saddle" With an Indian at Pendleton

REMEMBER, back in 1909 and early in 1910, when Jeffries, Frank Gotch, and a lot of other fight and wrestling notables made their famous barnstorming trip? That did a lot to make up interest in the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno.

The late Charley Ferguson, one of the prime movers in starting the great Pendleton Roundup, once told me of the show in that thriving eastern Oregon town.

It was the job of the advance men to pick up some local light to meet Jeffries or to wrestle Gotch for the world's championship.

"The Indians out on the Umatilla Reservation do some wrestling, and there's one big guy you might get," the agents were told. The Indian agreed. Pendleton and vicinity were plastered with paper about the championship match.

COWBOYS, Indians and townspeople crowded the hall. Jeff and the others went through their paces. Gotch was introduced. He flung a couple of wrestling partners around the ring.

The Indian was called to the ring. He demurred. "Me no wrestle that way—me wrestle pack-saddle," he said.

"I don't know what pack-saddle is—but we'll wrestle that way," said Gotch. The Indian agreed, and stripped.

They stepped into the centre of the ring. Gotch watched big-eyed, with mouth agape, as the big redskin began chanting some Indian song, slapping his hands on his knees and thighs.

Suddenly he reached out with a lightning-like movement, grabbed the puzzled Gotch, and threw him in the air and over his shoulder. Gotch landed on his neck behind the Indian.

The crowd roared—and those laughing the hardest were the members of the barnstorming party. Jeff was doubled up.

Gotch, furious, got to his feet, rushed at the Indian and threw him into the orchestra pit.

"That's enough, I throw you, you throw me," said the Indian, as he left with his clothes.

"And he always insisted he was 'half-champion,'" said Ferguson. (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service Inc.)

FIEND RUNS WILD, BLEAK PRAIRIES SCENE OF KILLINGS

Just as spring was fighting back the cold north winds of winter, out on an open plain near the hamlet of Brower, near Yorkton, Saskatchewan, where few trees and winter winds are bleak, a tragedy that has few parallels in the history of western Canada, was enacted. In a little prairie home at an early hour one day last week, according to details received here by W. Outhwaite, the sad happened. Centred around a foreign settler that had made good in Canada on the fertile lands he chose as his own. Smouldering ruins, disorder, chaos, and a broken home is all that remains of a once prosperous farmstead where barns well filled with fodder and horses, cattle, pigs and poultry were once the emblem of prosperity. The seducer of the eldest daughter to whom the father could never become reconciled, was the seat of the trouble.

And again northeastern Saskatchewan was answers to the call of murder. Two souls respond with their lives. Out of the darkness of night comes the blast of a shot gun. It awakens a family of six. A mother goes to the doorway but is met with the contents of a twenty-gauge. She reels back mortally wounded. The increased murderer continues his rampage. He sets the outbuildings afire. Two sons and a hired man run into the farm yard in night attire. They are greeted with lead, each and every one. They flee for cover. Not satisfied, the gunman enters the home through a window. He is met by the horrified father. Each have a shot gun. Both firearms are discharged. The battle is ended. The murderer is dead.

The gun battle occurred on the farm of John Grabowsky at 2 a.m., and resulted in the instant death of Mike Bilarski, the gunman, and the death later in the day of Mrs. Grabowsky. The two sons of Grabowsky, William and Charles, a hired man, John Stockowski, and Grabowsky himself are in the hospital at Melville all seriously injured, but it is stated that all will recover. Eleven horses, ten cows, twenty hogs and 300 chickens perished in the flames.

While Royal Canadian Mounted Police now investigating have not given out a statement, regarding their findings, it is believed that an inquest will be held as soon as those wounded are able to be out of hospital.

It is stated that Bilarski, who was a man about fifty years of age, and the daughter of Grabowsky, aged twenty-five years, had been living together for the past two years. The father objected and had taken his daughter home.

About 2 a.m., it is stated, Bilarski went to the barn near Brower. The hearing of the dog aroused Mrs. Grabowsky. When she appeared at the door Bilarski is alleged to have fired at her with a shot gun. She fell.

SET BARN AFIRE Bilarski's next act was to set fire to the barn, and when the two sons and the hired man ran out into the yard on discovery of the flames, they, too, were fired upon. One of them escaped serious injury and he it was who later gave the alarm.

There remained in the house the

IS GUEST SPEAKER

TRUSTEE G. A. A. HEDDEN who has been asked to address the convention of the Parent-Teacher Federation of British Columbia at the Kitilano High School on April 24. Mr. Hedden will speak on "The Rising Costs of Education."

During the 1,800-mile journey of Inspector Joy and Constable Taggart of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in the spring of 1929 in the Canadian Arctic archipelago, they had an encounter with an angry polar bear which, while it ended happily, shows how alert and resourceful Canada's representatives in the north must be to prevent commonplace daily incidents resulting in tragedy.

Asleep in their igloo (snow-hut), Inspector Joy and his two companions, Constable Taggart and an Eskimo driver—were aroused by the barking of the tethered dogs announcing the very ordinary occurrence of the visit of a bear. There was no intention to interfere with the animal, but it soon became apparent that something would have to be done because the brute could be heard tearing the party's clothing and pawing on one of the komatiks (sleds). The Inspector unwillingly gave the order to shoot the bear, but when Constable Taggart attempted to get outside he found the doorway of the igloo buried in a drift of hard snow. The three occupants thereupon raised a terrific noise to frighten the bear away, but instead the bear turned swiftly to the igloo, climbed all over it, and by the time a hole was made in the ice-lined wall large enough for a man to crawl through, was waiting outside and immediately made a severe noise in protest. The police were at a disadvantage because it is the necessary custom of the polar regions to stock firearms outside the snow-hut for the reason that if kept inside the warm "sweat" rifle would instantly freeze on sudden exposure to the open air and thus be rendered useless.

In this case the gun in its cover was standing close by the hole made in the wall, and just as the desperate attack of the bear was beaten back for the moment, Constable Taggart seized the rifle. In a flash, however, the bear struck the rifle from Taggart's grasp, and then, as if to frustrate any further attempt to recover it, stood on it with both forepaws, snarling angrily, with his head thrust through the hole. A second later the bear made another desperate lunge to get at the men but was met with such a vigorous counter attack with sticks and snow knife that he was driven back a pace or two. At that moment Taggart recovered the rifle and dropped the bear in the midst of its third wild charge. It was a large animal and was, no doubt, particularly savage through hunger.

Contrary to popular opinion, Canadian police and explorers do not regard the polar bear as the "great white terror of the north" nor do they avoid the localities where bears most abound. As a matter of fact they are glad to discover bears along a projected route because bears congregate where seals are plentiful and their presence assures travelers of a bountiful food supply both for their dogs and themselves. The police and other Government officials in the north always conserve wild life and kill bears only when absolutely necessary for food. At times, however, as the above story indicates, drastic action has to be taken.

Four Divisions of Six Clubs Each to Be Run This Year

Five Teams Entered Different Sections of Victoria and District Softball League; Entries Close Monday Night, When Schedule Will Be Drawn Up; League to Get Under Way Early in May; Several New Teams to Seek Honors; Entries Announced by Secretary Ernie Stock.

With the opening games scheduled for the first week in May twenty teams have sent in their entries to the Victoria and District Softball League, according to an announcement made this morning by Ernie Stock, secretary of the association. Entries will close on Monday night when a meeting of the league will be held at the Y.M.C.A. to draw up the schedule and arrange the teams in their various sections. Before Monday it is expected that three more teams will have sent in their entry forms, bringing the total up to twenty-four.

The league will be divided into four sections this year, "A," "B," "C" and "D," the same as last season, with six clubs in each division. The teams entered so far and the division in which they will most likely play follow:

"A"—Hillcrest, Saanich "A," Plumley and Ritchie, H.M.C.S. Vancouver, Vancouver Province and the North Saanich Service Club.

"B"—Western Steel Products, Naval Barracks, View Royal and Saanich "B." "C"—Y.M.I., "A," Victoria City Firemen, Y.M.I. "B," Oak Bay and Pacific Brothers.

"D"—Hunters, Oaklands, New Method Laundry, Canadian Scottish and Hudson's Bay.

Several New Teams Of the teams entered to date four of them, Western Steel Products, Victoria City Firemen, Oak Bay and New Method Laundry, are newcomers to softball. Entries are expected to be filed from Royal Oak, J.B.A.A. and a North Saanich "B" team before the closing date.

Softball is one of the most popular of the summer games in Victoria, and every year new teams are being organized and the association is getting bigger.

The teams in the various divisions will engage in schedules composed of two halves and the two winners will meet in a play-off at the end of the season for the championship of their section. When all the section winners have been decided the names of the four teams will be drawn from a hat, the first two out to meet, and the last two to oppose each other. The two winners will then meet in the finals for the league championship.

A city championship will then be staged between the winners of the Victoria and District League and the Westholme League, the survivors to oppose the Mainland champions in a series for the British Columbia championship. The Tolmie Cup, representing provincial honors, is at present held by a Vancouver club.

New Small Motor For German Rocket Car

Liquid Oxygen and Gasoline Used to Propel Max Valier's Speed Vehicle

Berlin, April 18.—Germany, the country of "vest pocket cruisers," has now produced a vest pocket motor, about the size of a two-quart bottle.

Dr. Paul Heylandt, leading German research authority on liquid gases, has supplied Max Valier, well known for his experiments with rocket cars, with a motor that is revolutionary in the simplicity of its construction.

Instead of power or dynamo, Valier uses Dr. Heylandt's liquid oxygen rocket, which has the advantages of being safe, always under control and supplying a continuous stream of propulsive energy.

In the first section of Valier's new car is a gasoline tank and behind the driver is a tank of the new liquid oxygen. Both elements are fed into a narrow bottle-shaped tubes in the rear of the car, where they are ignited and produce such terrific recoil that the car is propelled forward.

The exploded mixture, escapes by a rear aperture in this bottle-shaped motor leaving a long trail of fire behind but no smoke.

SEAPLANE TRIP FOR CHILDREN IN MAY REVEALS

Boat Trips, Y.M.C.A. Memberships and Swimming Pool Passes Also Offered

Ambitious Plans Are Being Co-ordinated For Gala Holiday on May 24

Keen interest is being shown in the sections of the May 24 street parade open to school children. It is reported by the committee in charge of that section of the Victoria Day festivities, sponsored by the junior division of the Chamber of Commerce, in co-operation with many organizations. There will be two sections composed of school children, one comprising decorated groups of eight children in floral, historical or national costumes, and the other of teams of four on bicycles, riders and bicycles, both to be decorated. In addition there will be many individual entries in costume.

Classes are also open for dancing schools, of which there are a number in the city, and these, it is expected, will contribute to the costume sections of the parade.

NOVEL PRIZES

Several novel prizes have been lined up for the school children, including seaplane rides, boat trips, Y.M.C.A. membership tickets and Crystal Garden swimming pool privileges. The seaplane or boat trips would be under the supervision of a teacher, comprising a novel holiday outing for winning teams. Prizes in kind will be offered to those who qualify for the air or sea trips, but do not wish to go on the tour.

The full prize list, containing the entry list of all sections of the parade, is now in the hands of the printers, and will be distributed shortly.

SPECIAL DISPLAY
An added attraction in the parade this year will be a special display by the Central School Old Boys' Reunion, now planning a grand tour for the occasion.

Efforts are being made to make the street parade fully representative of life and color, with the place of honor offered to branches of His Majesty's services.

The street parade will be only one attraction of many planned for a festival to last several days. Plans are being prepared for other forms of entertainment, which when rounded into one programme will provide an outstanding commemoration of Victoria's traditional holiday.

A pageant with 1,000 participants, a gala attraction at the Crystal Garden, road race and other sport events are all included in plans being pushed with the hearty co-operation of organizations in Victoria and the surrounding districts.

Colwood

There was a good attendance at Wednesday afternoon's meeting of the Colwood Women's Institute in the Institute rooms. Mrs. Kelly, president, was in the chair. Four visitors were present including Mrs. A. L. Nixon, Colwood; Madeline R. Brown, W. Heath and J. Trace, Luxton.

It was decided to affiliate again this year with the League of Nations Society of Canada, in which many members took part in the life and work of Blime Carman was instructive and interesting. Mrs. Kelly, president, dealt with personal reminiscences, speaking of the excellent interpretion the author himself gave of his poems at Government House, Victoria. Blime Carman's early life was described by Mrs. T. W. Spencer, and the author's appreciation of a "Child's Prayer" was outlined by Mrs. Frank Hughes.

Mrs. H. Parker and Mrs. J. Hopwood read respectively, "Mothers" and "The Vagabond." Mrs. T. Millburn and Miss Kelly read other poems by the author, including "The Scarlet Maple Tree" and a special poem, a tribute to Blime Carman, by Nathaniel Benson, M.A.

Some amusing monologues depicting the trials and tribulations of the "home-maker" were feelingly read by the president.

Birthday greetings were extended to Mrs. A. Godfrey.

An interesting letter-written by a member of a women's institute in England, now visiting in Canada, was read. Of special interest to the Colwood Institute was the reference to the founder of the movement. Mrs. A. Hoodless, inasmuch as this institute was the first in Canada to pay respect by instituting a "Hoodless Day."

"Resolved: That long dresses have come to stay" was the amusing entertaining subject discussed by the members. Mrs. Kelly, president, dressed in a graceful gown of the type worn seventy-five years ago, shy pleaded for the return of the long dresses, explaining textile and woolen mills would be operative full time, also many other industries, including the "herring bone," would be thriving. Mrs. Kelly had an able supporter in Mrs. R. Brown of Happy Valley. The present style of dresses as being healthy, attractive and economical was strongly advocated by all others present.

Easter lilies, jonquils, daffodils and hyacinths were the attractive table decorations used. A delicious tea was served by Mrs. T. Millburn and Mrs. C. Carnegie.

Service will be held at St. John's Church Easter Sunday at 11 a.m., with celebration of Holy Communion. An anthem, "They Have Taken Away My Lord," will be rendered by the choir.

Garden City

A large number of guests were welcomed at the daffodil tea held in the Garden City United Church Wednesday afternoon, given under the auspices of the Women's Association of that church. Tea was served at small tables effectively decorated with daffodils. An excellent musical programme was rendered, with vocal solos "Second Minute" and "The Little Brown Owl," by Miss Winnie Farmer; "In an Orchard," "That's the Time to Smile," by Mrs. F. Tappan; "Valley of Laughter" and "Vale," by Mrs. J. Stobden, and piano solos by Miss Lila Dennist.

It being the birthday of two of the members, Mrs. Ireland and Mrs. James, greetings and good wishes were extended to them by the president, Mrs. Perry, after which Mrs. White and Mrs.

JOIN HANDS IN CAMPAIGN FOR TOURISTS

Co-operation Essential For Best Results, Says Los Angeles Publisher

Victoria Men on Crusade of Pacific Coast Cities

"California, Oregon, Washington and British Columbia will not get their quota of eastern and middle western tourists until the plans for unification of the entire area are put in motion."

This was the statement in a letter received in San Francisco by Fred R. Kerman, general chairman of the Pacific Coast Crusade, from Harry Chandler, publisher of The Los Angeles Times, who is one of the outstanding supporters of the crusade movement inaugurated by the Redwood Empire Association.

Chandler declared in his letter that the crusade plan to unify the Pacific Coast, setting aside sectional jealousies and difference to make a strong bid for the tourist dollar in competition with the nations of Europe, which have long since realized the value of pooling their attractions to lure the tourists.

The crusade officially stated Sunday, April 13, when a large group of British Columbia leaders left Victoria by motor caravan.

The Victoria crusaders stopped over night at Seattle and were joined by the Seattle delegation Monday, proceeding to Vancouver, B.C., and picking up the Vancouver delegation. From Vancouver the caravan is proceeding south, being augmented by delegations from Bellingham, Everett, Tacoma, Olympia, Centralia, Chehalis and Longview.

The caravan will make its way through the Redwood Empire, being joined by representative delegations of the Redwood Empire group. The entire party is scheduled to arrive in San Francisco Saturday.

Elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the crusaders here are under way. Their two-day stop in San Francisco will culminate in a breakfast session Monday morning, April 21, prior to their boarding a special train, which will take them through central and southern California.

It is anticipated that a large and representative group of San Francisco leaders will join the party, headed by Mayor James Rolph Jr.

DEAN ORGANIZES CLEAN-UP SQUAD

To clean up the grounds around the new Christ Church Cathedral before Easter, Dean Quainton and Archdeacon Laycock will organize a "working bee" on Saturday afternoon, from 2 o'clock.

Any men who wish to join them, the Dean stated yesterday, should bring suitable tools. Spades and shovels, saws, rakes and wheelbarrows will be useful.

Passengers remained aboard all night and disembarked at 6 o'clock this morning, the ship proceeding to Seattle an hour later.

ITINERARY OF EUROPEAN TOUR IS ATTRACTIVE

Party of Victorians Will See
Many Lights in Summer
With Dr. Clem Davies

Twenty-five or more local residents will make a tour of Europe this summer conducted by Dr. Clem Davies, pastor of the Victoria City Temple. Plans for the tour are now practically complete and an itinerary which will give the members of the party a wonderful journey has been drawn up.

The party will leave Victoria about June 25 for New York, sailing from that port on July 4, aboard the new motor liner Saturnia and will make visits in North Africa, Italy, Austria, Germany, France, Switzerland, Belgium and the British Isles before sailing from Southampton for home on August 16. The Victoria tourists will leave the Saturnia in Italy and from there travel inland through Europe.

AT PASSION PLAY
Attendance at the world-famous Passion Play at Oberammergau will be the outstanding feature of the tour. The play is scheduled to take place on Sunday, July 27 and the local party will reach the quaint old village on the morning of that day. Before arriving at Oberammergau, however, the party will visit at Algiers, Naples, Rome, where four days will be spent seeing the sights of the Eternal City, Florence, Venice and Innsbruck.

The day after the Passion Play the party will leave for Switzerland, calling at Lucerne, Interlaken, Geneva, and other beautiful spots in the Alps. Paris will be reached on August 5 and five days will be spent in the great French capital. Brussels is next on the itinerary. The tour party will cross the English Channel for a visit to England, Scotland and Ireland. Three days will be spent in London and the party will sail from Southampton on August 16, arriving in New York on August 24. This date will bring the party back to Victoria about September 1. Liberal stopover privileges have been arranged for anyone who wishes it can remain in Europe for several months.

the liner to Seattle. Most of those leaving here transferred this afternoon to the Princess Charlotte for Vancouver, although several will remain here over the Easter week-end before leaving for the mainland en route to their homes in the interior and on the prairies.

SEA CAPTAIN TRAVELS MANY OCEAN MILES

Capt. J. H. Trask of Liner
Sierra Has Crossed Equator
300 Times

San Francisco, April 18.—If you are a commuter and have for years traveled the same route daily you can probably tell just how far you are from your destination by some landmark. Unconsciously you will make preparations to leave the car for your station as the train flashes by a red barn, or a white church, or the corner filling station. In a distance of from three to ten miles during a regular train trip this performance is practiced by many.

But how would you like to wake up in the night somewhere along the route for the mainland en route to their homes in the interior and on the prairies.

It is said that practice makes perfect; and Capt. Trask has had plenty of practice, for he recently sailed from San Francisco to Sydney, Australia. When he completes this trip he will have covered more than 2,000,000 miles in ocean travel and will have crossed the Equator 300 times.

He knows every mile of the 7,000-mile trip, and by looking at the stars and noting the position of the Southern Cross at night can tell the ship's position during any part of the voyage. His ability to do so has been tested time and again by numerous passengers who have tried to stump him during various parts of the trip.

Capt. Trask probably has a wider acquaintance than any other ship's officer traveling to Australia. Except for being ashore during the war period he has traversed this same route for many years.

Born in Massachusetts, Capt. Trask first gained sea experience on sailing ships in the New England district, serving as sailor, officer and skipper on trips to Venezuela, Australia and England. The captain's delights in telling stories of the sea, and of the changes that have taken place in the various parts of call along his trips.

When Capt. Trask retires from the Matson service he will reside in Oakland, where he has a home. Should the well-known skipper commute across the bay to San Francisco he will undoubtedly in time be able to judge his exact position during the journey by landmarks that he will pass. He should be able to do so; he has had plenty of practice.

NOTICE TO MARINERS
Mariners are hereby advised that owing to the construction of a new railway bridge at the northeast end of Lulu Island, section 32, North Arm of the Fraser River, this part of the river will be closed entirely to navigation for three hours, from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., on April 22, 1930.

A. W. R. WILBY,
Agent, Marine Department,
Victoria, April 17.

Victoria Boys Serve On Empress of Canada

David Kirkendale and Alex Jardine Thrilled at Prospects of Studying Sea Together; Were Both Members of Victoria Sea Cadet Corps.

Two highly excited young men boarded the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada when she sailed from the Rihet piers here yesterday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock for Honolulu, Japan, China and the Philippine Islands.

These two were sixteen-year-old lads of Victoria, one the son of Capt. George Kirkendale, harbor master of Victoria, and Mrs. Kirkendale of Dallas Road, and the other the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Jardine of Michigan Street. It was David Kirkendale's first voyage aboard the great white Empress and his first experience with the sea, but Alex Jardine had had the thrill and experience of one round trip to the Orient aboard the Empress of Canada.

YOUNG OFFICER
Wesley Kirkendale, who is sixteen years of age, has been a prominent member of the Victoria Sea Cadet Corps, and when he severed his connection with this body he was chief petty officer. Alex Jardine was also a member of the Sea Cadet Corps. For several voyages aboard the Empress of Canada they will be employed as bridge boys, whose duties are to run messages for the captain and officers from the bridge to the purser's office and the wireless room and to do other odd jobs. In time they will be taught navigation and eventually serve their time as cadets.

Both youngsters have been paid through their days with the Sea Cadet Corps here and were fortunate in securing the opportunity to start their sea life together. Their ambition to be placed aboard one of the great Empress liners and that ambition has been realized. With a true love of the sea in both of them, their friends look forward to the time when they will each have command of a ship of their own.

YOUNG OFFICER
Wesley Kirkendale, who is sixteen years of age, has been a prominent member of the Victoria Sea Cadet Corps, and when he severed his connection with this body he was chief petty officer. Alex Jardine was also a member of the Sea Cadet Corps. For several voyages aboard the Empress of Canada they will be employed as bridge boys, whose duties are to run messages for the captain and officers from the bridge to the purser's office and the wireless room and to do other odd jobs. In time they will be taught navigation and eventually serve their time as cadets.

Both youngsters have been paid through their days with the Sea Cadet Corps here and were fortunate in securing the opportunity to start their sea life together. Their ambition to be placed aboard one of the great Empress liners and that ambition has been realized. With a true love of the sea in both of them, their friends look forward to the time when they will each have command of a ship of their own.

EASIER MONEY SEEN AS AID TO LUMBER TRADE

Quarter Billion Feet Less Cut
on Coast in First Three Months

Seattle, April 18.—The bright spots in a dull lumber market are easier money rates and increased efforts to stimulate home modernizing. Not only the domestic consumption of lumber is below normal but shipments to all important foreign outlets reveal a sharp loss in business. The outlook for the lumber industry has changed but little. General business conditions, which have cut down the use of lumber for nearly a year, remain about the same.

Underlying conditions world-wide, however, have been improved. One of the correctives for the monetary situation of sharply falling commodity prices is easy money policy. The movement to lower rates is one of the most rapid adjustments that has ever occurred. Reductions in the Bank of England rate from 5 to 3; the Bank of France from 5 1/2 to 3 1/2; and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York from 4 1/2 to 3 1/2, it is pointed out by market observers, are examples of the easier money policy.

YARD STOCKS LOW
Studies made by the West Coast Lumbermen's Association show that for the first thirteen weeks of 1930 the West Coast lumber trade cut about 240,000,000 feet less lumber than for the same period last year, but has sold about 624,000,000 feet less than in 1929. Business booked by identical mills in the first quarter of each year reveals a decrease of 20.5 per cent. This year's sales are placed at 60 per cent of total capacity of mills.

While lumbermen are not particularly pleased with the Middle Western trade, they are very low. Unsold stocks at San Pedro are placed at 12,000,000 feet, while transport shipments to the Atlantic Coast have been held to a minimum by easy buying conditions. Prices are lower.

Prices average about a half dollar lower than thirty days ago, but have failed to bring out additional business. To leading Puget Sound millers the easy buying situation does not mean that new business will be developed, but what buying is in sight will be held off pending a stabilization of values at point of production.

The Atlantic Coast situation was further bettered by the report that West Coast lumber rates for British Columbia are to be placed on a parity with freights from this side of the line. Efforts of organized mills to maintain a steady freight rate have done more to stave off a chaotic market than any single factor, in the opinion of shippers here.

Export demand was confined to reg-

President McKinley Due Here To-night From Orient Ports

The American Mail liner, President McKinley, will arrive from the Orient at the William Head quarantine station this afternoon at 5 o'clock and is expected to berth alongside the Rihet piers about an hour and a half later, according to wireless advice reaching Victoria this morning from the captain of the liner. She will leave about midnight to-night for Seattle where she is due at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning.

There are fifty passengers aboard who will leave the ship at this port. Most of these are in the steerage. Also for this port are 300 tons of general cargo, most of which, however, is for trans-shipment to Vancouver.

ular business to the United Kingdom, both clear and dark. Japanese demand was checked by lack of space for May, but several nice inquiries were received for June and several offers have been made. The suspension of trading on the Japanese stock exchange and the tightening of credit, will undoubtedly be felt in the market, but exporters here have as yet felt no reaction to this event.

Boy Who Had Everything Was Now World Pioneer

Life was very easy for William Stephens. His father was a baron, and had great wealth. The boy lived on a huge estate, and had everything a boy could wish.

When he grew up, he left the luxury of his estate behind him and went to North America, then being settled by the English. He became a friend of James Oglethorpe, the kindly man who had brought over a group of people who could not afford to pay their way, and settled in Georgia. William Stephens, born 259 years ago, joined them, and became the first president of Georgia.

DYING MAN'S WORDS REPEATED TO COURT AT MURDER HEARING

Witness came back to the Walker house and met Brotherton outside.

"I asked him 'what on earth had happened,' said witness. 'He replied, 'We had an argument about that girl of mine.' I told him not to tell me any more and not to say anything until he had secured counsel.'"

Blood-stained clothing taken from the injured man at the time was identified by Mrs. Waide.

Mrs. Waide, his wife, told of going to Walker's cottage after her husband told her what had happened. When she arrived Walker was moaning and groaning on the bed and crying, "Oh, Mrs. Waide, I'm dying." She went up to him and said, "No, Billy, you'll be alright."

The witness told her conversation with the dying man.

"HOW DID IT HAPPEN?"

"I said, 'Billy, how did it happen?' He said, 'He walked right in and said 'You know what I've come for,' and shot me through the stomach.'"

"I said, 'Had you done anything to her and Billy?' He said, 'No, I only saw her once or three little presents.'"

The injured man then continued to moan, "Oh, Mrs. Waide, I'm dying," and asked her to write to his father.

Constable A. G. Carmichael of the Provincial Police was the next witness. He had received a telephone call at 5:45 o'clock on April 17, when a man who said he was David Brotherton, the man told him to come out to Albert Head right away, but would not say what the trouble was. When the constable said he wished to get something to eat first, the man said that would be alright but not to be too long.

DIED IN AMBULANCE

Witness reached Walker's house at 6:45 o'clock and, after seeing the injured man, accompanied him to the city in the ambulance. He passed away as the ambulance turned the corner to the hospital.

Constable H. P. Hughes next took the stand. When he arrived at Walker's house with Constable Carmichael, he had seen a man in the front garden and asked him to come in. The man replied that he was Brotherton and that the constable was wanted inside. He went inside and saw the injured man.

After inspecting the man, the witness went outside and warned Brotherton he was inquiring into the case and asked him about it, but Brotherton said nothing. He then charged him with wounding another man, and warned him that anything he said might be used in evidence against him.

GUN PRODUCED

When walking back toward the house with the accused, Brotherton told him he had better take the gun which did the shooting. The gun was leaning up against the house near the back door and was a Winchester twelve-gauge pump gun. He took one empty cartridge case and two loaded shells from the breach and magazine.

In the house, Walker sat groaning on the bed, with a pool of blood beneath him, and witness, said witness, said witness, said witness.

Corporal R. Harvey related a conversation he had had with the accused on the same night after his arrival at the scene. While the police and the accused were in the bedroom, Constable Hughes had remarked that it was apparent the shooting had taken place in that room.

"I'LL SHOW YOU"

"Brotherton said, 'No, I'll show you,' and look us to the kitchen, where he indicated the places at which he and Walker had been standing at the time of the shooting."

The accused said, "Walker made a game at me like that (indicating with hand) and like that. You know he was bigger than I. My gun was in my right hand and somehow it came round to the front and went off into his head."

Corporal Harvey said he postponed investigation of the house until the next morning owing to the lack of light facilities.

Next day, in company with other constables, he visited the place and found pellets of shot in the door and a lamb one inch from the door and nine inches from the floor.

In the passageway, said the witness, there was a double-barrelled shotgun, unloaded, and resting on a cupboard with the barrel pointing through a hole in the ceiling.

PLAN OF HOUSE

A plan of the house was entered by the prosecution, and the rest of the evidence was of a technical nature, dealing with the plan and with the alleged to have been used in the shooting.

Harry Day, architect, testified regarding the drawing of the plan. Albert Bailey, photographer of the police, produced photographs he had taken of the scene, and W. N. Lennox, a constable, testified that there would be about twenty pellets of the type exhibited in one shell of six or seven pounds on the trigger would be necessary to discharge the gun, he said.

163 Divorce Bills Listed At Ottawa

Senate Committee Will Resume Hearings May 5; Already This Session 153 Cases Have Been Considered

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 18.—The divorce committee of the Senate will resume its work on Wednesday evening was hampered by reason of the fact that all the books and records had been lost in the late disastrous fire at Shawinigan, the charter being the only possession of the board saved, the monetary loss to the board being about $50.

In this connection a letter of sympathy from the Victoria Chamber of Commerce was greatly appreciated. The account books having been lost, it was decided to assess each member for this year's subscription, and any arrears that can be ascertained.

On the recommendation of the fish and game committee, it was decided to apply for 40,000 trout fry for Shawinigan Lake.

Repairs to bridges and culverts on the Silverton Trail will be brought to the attention of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, from the tourist point of view, and the Department of Mines, on behalf of prospectors.

DISAPPEARANCE NOT CLEARED UP BY NEW CLUES

Seattle, April 18.—Efforts to solve the mysterious disappearance last October of Thomas G. Gittings, pioneer Seattle lumberman, reached a stalemate yesterday with Police Lieut. C. G. Carr, in charge of the missing person bureau, convinced that a man who died in a St. Louis hospital last January under the name of Thomas Reynolds was Gittings, while Mrs. Gittings was usually positive the man was not the former lumberman.

Mrs. Gittings revealed that as long ago as last December she had received a report her husband was registered in a St. Louis hotel as Thomas Reynolds. She said she disregarded the report at first, but later wrote the hotel, only to find Reynolds had died in a hospital. A letter addressed to the hospital, she said, came back unopened, the man having died in the meantime.

BODY BURIED

She was taken to a hospital in Seattle soon afterwards herself, she said, and left the matter in the hands of C. A. Berry, a friend. Berry was notified last Monday by a firm of St. Louis undertakers that the body had been embalmed, and held for twenty-three days and then buried. The undertaker said a nurse had identified the man as Gittings from a photograph.

Carr has written to the St. Louis police and the undertaker who conducted the funeral to learn who defrayed the costs and for any other information, which may aid in clearing up the mystery.

Gittings disappeared last September in Victoria, B.C., where he had gone to negotiate a lumber deal with M. G. Thomie, former state legislator, from Oregon County.

"ONE A PENNY, TWO A PENNY HOT CROSS BUNS"

The history of the bun which bakeries offer to-day goes back to the time of George, then of the time of Asarte, on through the Jewish Passover cakes, to the eucharistic bread, or cross-marked wafer. The name bun is the holiest form from about which means sacred or for the horns of an ox were stamped on the early loaves.

The Greeks substituted the cross for the horn mark.

Originally the name of the English custom of selling buns was Cambridge-shire and Hertfordshire, where the old Roman road, the old street and the Army crossed. An altar had been erected to Diana at the crossroads to whom the Romans offered their cakes.

There are some places in the world even now where a special cake is still baked on Good Friday because small pieces of it, placed in water, are thought to have medicinal qualities.

One of the most interesting of customs still practiced on Good Friday takes place at St. Bartholomew's Church in London early in the morning. During the year the cathedral is practically deserted, but on this particular day huge throngs come to watch twenty-one aged women bend down to pick up twenty-one sixpences.

SOME ARE STIFF

Somewhere before the Great Fire somebody seems to know just when more money is needed to perpetuate this custom. Her grave is in the floor of the church. The coins are placed on it, and the women whose joints aren't too stiff bend down to receive their reward.

At the Blue Coat School and at the Langbourn Ward Schools buns and money are given out in accordance with the will of Peter Symonds, who left a bequest of £100 in 1687.

Down at Brighton the ancient custom of skipping rope on Good Friday continues, six to ten adults standing in the rope at once. In nearly all Sussex counties men and boys pass the hours playing marbles.

In Spain the custom differs. Fashionable ladies sit in the doorway of the churches dressed in funeral garb, and beg alms for the poor.

Effigies of Judas will be hung and burned in Portuguese countries.

MYSTERY PLAY

Monaco stages a mystery play with a weird night procession, and Palermo, too, has a procession of penitents, who don masked hoods, with holes for their eyes to look through, and garlands of thorns. Rope nooses are fastened around their necks and hands, and the penitents parade, marshalled by priests and monks.

Many countries use effigies of Christ as a feature of their celebration. In every Christian country church doors are open wide in anticipation of a triumphal entry of 2,000 years ago, whose chorals of hosannas come echoing down the windy highways each year when Easter comes.

Green Peas

If you want your green peas their own perfect color when done, add a little bit of soda to the water in which they are cooked.

Colored Shoes

How to shine colored shoes is often a problem. Before being worn they should be cleaned with colored cream polish and after each wearing this should be repeated.

Major M. A. Curwen, president, was in the chair, and there were also present Colonel L. Barclay-Wilmet, Lieut.-Col. F. T. Oldham, Dr. F. T. Stanier and H. P. O'Farrell, H. E. Hawkins, G. C. Cheke, J. C. Rathbone, K. G. Alexander, and P. J. Hoyle, secretary.

Port William, Ont., April 18.—At a convention in the Trades and Labor Hall here, from which press and public were excluded, the Independent Labor Party elected John H. Pattison, former alderman of this city and now a member of the Port William Hydro Commission, as a candidate to contest the Federal riding of Port William.

Mr. Pattison's nomination will cause a three-cornered election here, as C. H. Wilson was nominated on Monday by the Liberals and Hon. R. J. Manion, sitting member, is expected to be named by the Conservatives.

ARTISTIC GLASS AND EARTHENWARE ARE DISCUSSED

S. A. Reynolds Tells Island Arts and Crafts Club of Ancient Crafts

The development of craftsmanship in pottery and glassmaking was discussed before the Island Arts and Crafts Club by S. A. Reynolds on Wednesday evening. T. S. Gore presided over a well attended meeting, and tea was served by Mrs. W. F. Loveland and Mrs. M. Lettice.

Mr. Reynolds traced glassmaking from the earliest days of Egypt and discussed the early pottery of China. He showed the influence exerted upon early English glassware by the product of the Venetian masters, remarking that the development of English glassware was commenced in the days of Queen Elizabeth and soon outclassed, in quality and brilliance, the product of European craftsmen.

Mr. Reynolds said that although the modern glassworker had available a mass of chemical knowledge, he must also possess great technical skill to produce articles of supreme artistry.

Touching upon pottery and china-ware, the speaker told of the unsolved secrets of the pottery kiln and discussed the leading British earthenware products, which he declared to hold premier place in the world for beauty and durability.

NEW WEATHER STATION FOR PEACE RIVER

Establishment of New Observation Point Planned, Says Dr. J. Patterson, Director

Head of Meteorological Service Came West to Attend Pacific Science Conference

While no immediate developments are contemplated on the coast steps are being considered by the Dominion Government for the establishment of a new weather observation station in the Peace River district of British Columbia, according to Dr. J. Patterson, director of the Meteorological Service of Canada, who reached Victoria yesterday evening from Toronto.

The Peace River station, he said, would be similar to the one established at Prince George about a year ago.

All during the forenoon to-day Dr. Patterson was in conference with P. Napier Denison, superintendent of the Gonzales Heights meteorological observatory. He plans to return to Vancouver this evening en route back east.

Dr. Patterson stated that he came to the coast to attend the meeting of the Pacific Science Congress executive committee, which yesterday considered a two-day session at the University of British Columbia under the chairmanship of Dr. L. S. Killick.

The announcement was made at this session that the fifth Pacific Science Congress would be held in Victoria and Vancouver in May and June, 1932. This congress, said Dr. Patterson, would bring many prominent scientists to the coast.

This is the first visit of Dr. Patterson to the coast since he succeeded Sir Robert Stupart as director of the meteorological service of Canada.

Jim Davies Wins Penwill Cup For Keeps; Sets Record

Vancouver Flash Leads Field in Feature Event in Bicycle Racing Programme at Beacon Hill To-day; Covers Ten Miles in Twenty-five Minutes and Thirty-three Seconds, Breaking Bill Peden's Mark

Jim Davies of Vancouver, to-day won the ten-mile Penwill Cup race, feature event on the programme of cycling races staged at Beacon Hill Park under the auspices of the Victoria Cycling Club. The winner's time was 25 minutes and 33 seconds.

Glen Robbins of Victoria was second and Lew Rush, another local rider, third.

Davies in winning, set a new record for the event, beating the former record held by Bill Peden of 26 minutes and 45 seconds. Last year Leo Marchant won the race in 30 minutes 4 and 2-3 seconds.

By his victory Davies gained permanent possession of the Penwill Cup through the fact that to-day's victory was his third. He had previously won the event in 1926 and 1927.

Besides winning the Penwill Cup, Davies also shared the honors, with Robinson, another Vancouver rider, for winning the most laps. Both had twenty-four points to their credit.

A large crowd turned out to watch the races held over the scenic Beacon Hill course.

Two junior events were run off prior to the Penwill Cup event.

In the under-fourteen years event over a one mile course, James Haslam was the winner, covering the distance in two minutes and fifty-four seconds. Eric Charles was second and Teddy Bailey third. Four riders entered.

Murray Patrick clinched off the two miles in five minutes and twenty seconds to win the event for boys under sixteen. Ron Maycock was second and Claude Peden third.

Chief of Police John Fry acted as starter, and at the conclusion of the events, the prizes were presented by Alderman James Adam.

AID PLANNED FOR PRISONERS FREED IN B.C.

Society Organized in Vancouver to Engage in Reclamation Work

Vancouver, April 18.—Reclamation of discharged or paroled prisoners from provincial penal institutions is being undertaken by the newly-organized John Howard Society.

Among those who will be asked to officiate in this capacity are Rev. Nelson Harkness of the Baptist Church, Rev. Dr. Conrad Dickie of the United Church, Canon A. H. Sovereign of the Church of England, Mrs. T. H. Kirk of the Local Council of Women, Mrs. D. J. McEachern of the Provincial Council of Women, Rev. Walter W. P. O'Boyle of the Roman Catholic Church, Professor W. C. Topping of the University of British Columbia, Stanley Brent of the Y.M.C.A., Brigadier J. K. Gilling of the Salvation Army, Rev. R. G. MacEachern of the Presbyterian Church and Rabbi Solomon Wohlgeler of the Jewish community.

CLUBS TO CO-OPERATE

Co-operation of the service clubs of Vancouver and New Westminster, as well as the police officials and wardens, also will be solicited.

The enormous character of the problem of reclamation was outlined briefly by Canon Sovereign, chairman, yesterday evening.

During the first three months of this year 835 men and women were discharged or paroled from Okalla prison and eighteen from the New Westminister penitentiary, Canon Sovereign stated.

He explained the organization could hope only to start its work in a small way, with great discrimination, to avoid an avalanche of requests.

Only those who are recommended by the wardens or superintendents of the institutions will be assisted by the society.

SEEK TO ADAPT SLOTTED WINGS TO FLYING BOATS

London, April 18.—A number of interesting experiments with civil and military aircraft will be carried out by the Air Ministry during the next few months.

In the military sphere, conditions of secrecy necessarily prevail. Certain tests of safety devices, however, will be made with fighting aircraft that will be of value in commercial flying.

Chief of these will be an attempt to adapt the slotted wing to large flying boats, so as to give not only the additional safety conferred by this device, but also a greater "lift" at the critical period when a flying boat is taking off from the sea.

One of the handicaps to commercial development of flying-boats is the necessity for providing a large margin of power for taking off purposes. Put another way, the load of a flying boat in the air is less than the load carried by an equivalent aeroplane because the flying-boat cannot lift as much weight from the water, although once in flight it can sustain almost an equal load.

The employment of slotted wings to increase useful load has not been investigated. This was, however, the original purpose behind the invention. Its success as a safety device has tended to eclipse other possibilities. The experiments to be made this year will break new ground in theory and practice concerning slotted wings.

FIRE DAMAGE LOW IN CITY LAST WINTER

Property Worth $50,000,000 Had Winter Loss of Only $12,225

Actual Value of Buildings and Contents at Risk in Fires Was $811,200

November to February, the hibernation months of winter fire loss in most cities on this continent, have treated Victoria kindly, it was reported by officials of the Victoria Fire Department to-day. Though buildings and contents to a value of $811,200 were actually at risk in fires attended, the loss for the four-month period was only $12,225. The gross value of improved property in the city approximates $50,000,000, and virtually the whole loss was covered by insurance.

On the basis of a city population of 42,000 to 45,000, the fire loss experienced in Victoria for the active risk period was in the neighborhood of thirty cents per capita. In the winter of 1928-1929 the city had a similar experience, with an actual loss of $13,061 for the period of from November to February, inclusive.

As the winter months are recognized as constituting half of the fire risk of the entire year, Victoria may again repeat her proud record of a low-loss ratio of 81 per cent for the twelve-month period.

This experience has been common in Victoria for a number of years now, and last year won for the capital the position of leading city in Canada for low fire losses among centres of comparative size.

SAID HOOVER HAD DOUBT ON PROHIBITION

Statement Made by Leader of Wets Put Before Senate Lobby Committee

Declared President Beginning to Doubt Prohibition Law Could Be Enforced

Washington, April 18.—An expression of belief by W. H. Stanyon, chairman of the board of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, that President Hoover "is beginning to doubt whether prohibition can be enforced" was received to-day by the Senate lobby committee.

The opinion was contained in a letter written last February by Stanyon to Charles S. Wood, of Philadelphia, a vice-president of the wet organization. It said: "My own feeling is as I talk to senators, members of Congress and public officials here, that Mr. Hoover is beginning to doubt whether prohibition can be enforced."

It added that Mr. Hoover "wants to take plenty of time to consider it, but he is being abused a little too much."

SLAYING OF TWO AT BANK DECLARED PLOT

Man Held at Fort Worth, Texas, Says Reward of $10,000 Was Sought

Fort Worth, Texas, April 18.—The slaying of two negroes in an attempt to rob the First State Bank of Polytex here last Thursday was framed by four white men, according to A. P. Boyd, a barber, in a confession to the district attorney yesterday.

The plan was to have the negroes held up by the bank and slay them on the scene for a reward of $5,000 offered by the Texas Bankers' Association for each slain bank robber. The association, however, announced it would not pay the reward on the slayings here as the Polytex Bank did not contribute to the reward fund.

Boyd made his confession yesterday after charges of murder had been filed against him and John Alsop, former policeman. The negroes, Will Tate and George Terrell, were slain by Alsop, who told officers he had had an advance tip on the robbery.

CALLER KILLED

In his confession, Boyd said he had met the "ringleader" about three weeks before the slayings and discussed the plan. He said he and a companion later wanted to withdraw, but the "ringleader" called them "a couple of killers."

On the day of the attempted robbery, Boyd said he drove the negroes picked for the job to the vicinity of the bank. He said they had been drinking and only one of them was armed.

Besides Alsop and Boyd, two other men were questioned in connection with the slayings. A negro was arrested after Boyd had made his statement.

Since the Bankers' Association announced its "dead robbery" reward five men have been killed. Two were slain at Odessa, two at Rankin and one at Stanton.

An inquest will be held to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock by Dr. E. C. Hart at the Sands Funeral Chapel over the remains of the late Kenzie Jilko, who was killed last Tuesday while working in a lumber camp in Sooke, and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon the remains will be forwarded to Armstrong & Hudson, funeral directors at Vancouver, where services will be held and the remains will be cremated.

BIG STORE MERGERS REVIVED IN REPORTS IN WALL ST. TO-DAY

New York, April 18.—Rumors of plans for a merger of Montgomery Ward & Company and Sears, Roebuck & Company were revived in Wall Street to-day, although such rumors have been discouraged in the past by officials of both companies.

Another rumor in which the street was keenly interested was to the effect that a merger of Montgomery Ward and the J. C. Penney is being discussed, but this, too, was discouraged at the Penney offices. A merger of Penney with Sears, Roebuck, was considered a few months ago, but it was finally announced that after a thorough study of the situation it had been determined that such a combination would be uneconomical.

Julius Rosenberg, chairman of Sears, Roebuck, was reported to be on his way to New York from Chicago, where offices of the company are located. R. E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, was reported to be sent from the offices of the companies in Chicago to-day.

Leading banking interests represented on the board of Montgomery Ward are J. P. Morgan & Company, and Goldman, Sachs & Company are bankers for Sears, Roebuck.

No authoritative comment regarding the merger rumors was available in Wall Street banking circles. The gossip was to the effect that the matter had only been discussed informally by important interests of both companies, and that it had not been formally brought before the directors of either company.

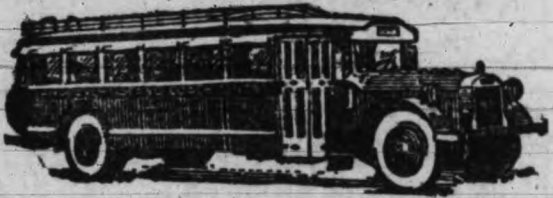

OTTAWA INVESTORS SUFFER IN SMASH

Ottawa, April 18.—Liabilities of $955,600 and assets of $871,220, leaving a deficit of $84,380, were shown as the condition of the defunct Canadian mine brokerage house of Mowat and MacCallum at a meeting of creditors here.

Whether creditors are to get between seventy-five and ninety cents on the dollar, or a mere fifteen per cent, hinges on the question of whether the promotion stocks held by the firm are saleable at their book value or are worthless.

Calumet-Arizona, Phelps-Dodge Form Big Copper Merger

Formal announcement is expected in Wall Street soon of the merger of the Phelps Dodge Corporation, Calumet and Arizona Mining Company and the Phelps Dodge Corporation, into a $350,000,000 corporation which will be the third largest copper producer in the world.

The new company would rank next to Kennecott Copper Corporation and the Anaconda Copper Mining Company.

Coincident with reports of the merger was the announcement that Louis S. Bates had resigned as vice-president of the Phelps Dodge Corporation, to accept the presidency of Phelps Dodge.

In the proposed new organization, he is slated to be an executive officer. Phelps Dodge officers denied reports that a merger with Calumet and Arizona was being completed, but admitted that discussions are under way. Though there was no official confirmation, it was understood that the other two companies have financial interests, would be brought into the merger, Wall Street expected its inclusion.

Julius Rosenberg, chairman of Sears, Roebuck, was reported to be on his way to New York from Chicago, where offices of the company are located.

R. E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, was reported to be sent from the offices of the companies in Chicago to-day.

Leading banking interests represented on the board of Montgomery Ward are J. P. Morgan & Company, and Goldman, Sachs & Company are bankers for Sears, Roebuck.

Work Out Plan For Canada Money At Par in U.S.

The plan for using the Federal Reserve system facilities for handling Canadian currency is announced by the Federal Reserve Bank. The plan will prevent the high discount on Canadian currency, which has frequently ranged from 10 to 20 per cent at places remote from the border.

The board said it felt that if member banks co-operate by extending similar service to their customers, Canadian tourists traveling in this country will find American merchants willing to accept Canadian currency at or near par.

The high exchange rate frequently charged on Canadian currency, because United States currency is accepted at par in Canada.

POOL COMPULSION URGED BY DIRECTOR

Agreement between the Wheat Pool and the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, on the much-debated proposal for a 100 per cent compulsory pool of primary products was made last week by F. Sprout, pool director for the district No. 2 in the district before farmers and businessmen of Waseca, Sask.

He felt sure, he told the meeting, that the two organizations would have a well-defined plan to submit to the growers in the near future.

The U.F.C. had advocated an 100 per cent pool for some time and had carried on a vigorous campaign in the province for more than a year. Aaron Sapir, United States co-operative marketing expert, and other speakers have toured Saskatchewan on speaking trips in favor of the proposal.

At the February convention of the farm body here a resolution calling for 100 per cent marketing control of primary products by legislation was passed. It was laid down, however, that before legislation could possibly be enacted two-thirds of the growers in Saskatchewan would have to favor the plan.

A short time ago, executives of the pool and the U.F.C. met in Regina to discuss the 100 per cent plan. The meeting was held behind closed doors and only meagre statements were given out. Addressing farm audiences recently, A. J. MacPhail, president of the Pool, stated that he was opposed to the plan, but other directors, including L. C. Brown, vice-president, went on record as in favor of the proposed system.

WILL ST. AWITS EARNINGS REPORTS

By slowing up and by evidencing greater hesitation, the stock market may be setting the stage for the publication of first quarter earnings statements. F. Sprout, pool director, in his financial comment to the B.C. Bond, it is not believed that the publication of disappointing figures will necessarily prove to be news that will precipitate general reactions.

Wall Street has well-defined ideas of what to expect from various industries. It is rather definitely established that earnings of the leading steel companies will, all things considered, be quite satisfactory. Spotty returns will be reported, but they will reach very high levels on account of the slackness of business and overproduction. Mr. Warren concluded.

The meeting authorized an increase in the number of directors on the board from eleven to fourteen. Three new directors were elected to fill the openings thus created.

The complete board of directors with the addition of the new members is as follows: James J. Warren, E. W. Black, Sir Herbert Holt, Henry Joseph R. H. McMaster, all of Montreal; S. O. Blaylock, Trail, B.C.; W. L. Matthews, F. Gordon, Oshawa, and W. L. Matthews, Toronto; Hon. R. B. Bruce and A. A. Plummer, Victoria, B.C.; and Blake Wilson of Vancouver. The last three are the new directors.

The directors' terms expired this year and were re-elected at today's meeting for a term of two years were: Mr. Beatty, Mr. Black, Mr. Blaylock, Mr. Joseph and Mr. Oshawa.

The annual directors' report and financial statements were accepted by the meeting with little comment.

Mr. Warren, pool director, in connection with the report that the company had acquired an interest in International Nickel, it is agreed between the two companies that there will be reciprocal arrangements with regard to the purchase of nickel ore.

Mr. Warren left the answer to the question to Mr. Lindsay, who, in addition to being a director of Smelters, is also a director of the company.

Mr. Lindsay's answer was that Nickel had not purchased any of the Smelters stock.

A.T.T. RIGHTS ANNOUNCED

New York, April 18.—The American Telephone and Telegraph Company announces its expected stock offering, which is to be made to shareholders on the basis of one new share for each share held on May 23.

On the basis of approximately 13,000,000 shares now outstanding, the rights, valued at about $24.50 each, would mean the issuance of about $320,000,000 in new stock. The aggregate value of the rights, which expire on May 23, is about $327,000,000.

The capital thus raised will be used by the company for the 1930 expansion programme of the Bell Telephone System.

Holders of the convertible bonds of 1929, sold to stockholders nearly a year ago, will not be entitled to participate in the new offering, nor will stock issued in the conversion of those debentures after May 23 be entitled to the rights. The conversion price of the bonds remains at $180 a share until May 23, and will thereafter be reduced by approximately $12 a share.

SOLLOWAY WINS EDMONTON CASE

Edmonton, April 18.—Unanimous judgment order of the appellate division of the supreme court of Alberta, in favor of Solloway-Mills and Company, was rendered today, dismissing an appeal of W. A. Wilkin Limited of this city to uphold a temporary injunction order by Mr. Justice Ford, preventing the defendant brokerage firm from disposing of certain stocks.

The appeal, which was heard this afternoon, arose out of action instituted by the plaintiff against Solloway-Mills Limited, in which an accounting of all the plaintiff's buying and selling transactions in connection with the purchase of certain stock is asked.

NEW SMELTERS STOCK AT 200

The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada Limited will issue the additional common shares, announced some time ago, to the shareholders at a price of $20 per share to stock of record May 31, on a basis of one new share for each twenty held on that date, according to a decision reached at a meeting of the board of directors following the announcement of the plan.

The new stock is according to the annual report of the president, J. J. Warren, issued for the purpose of covering the company's expenditures in connection with the fertilizer plant extensions. On this account, of about one share for each twenty shares of stock at $200 per share which will net the company a special revenue of $40,000.

The warrants will be distributed to the holders with the dividend payment which is ordinarily made on July 15. The rights on the stock on the basis of the last closing price of $247 per share will be worth $2.35 each.

The operations during the first quarter of the year have been satisfactory, said Mr. Warren, in his supplementary remarks to the shareholders at today's meeting, "except that there was a power shortage during part of the quarter, which has resulted in a lower water in the Kootenay River. Production, however, was well maintained," he added.

Mr. Warren supplied the following first quarter figures which compare with production in the corresponding period of last year:

	1929	1928
Lead (tons)	35,873	33,071
Zinc (tons)	29,808	23,684
Copper (tons)	3,342	688
Gold (ounces)	4,079	8,812
Silver (ounces)	1,880,644	2,124,140
Cadmium (tons)	67	118

"At the end of the quarter there was no unsold stock of lead and only a small unsold stock of zinc," Mr. Warren said. "Metal prices have declined somewhat since the end of the year, but will probably appreciate before the middle of the year. It is not expected, however, that they will reach very high levels on account of the slackness of business and overproduction." Mr. Warren concluded.

The meeting authorized an increase in the number of directors on the board from eleven to fourteen. Three new directors were elected to fill the openings thus created.

Falconbridge Makes First Smelter Report

The new smelter of Falconbridge Nickel Mines Limited, which commenced operations on February 4, handled 14,846 tons of ore, or an average of 270 tons a day, in the 58 days ended March 31, according to the company's initial quarterly report, details of which were received here by mail last week.

On the basis of approximately 13,000,000 shares now outstanding, the rights, valued at about $24.50 each, would mean the issuance of about $320,000,000 in new stock. The aggregate value of the rights, which expire on May 23, is about $327,000,000.

Dorothy Dix

WHY THE cult of youth that obsesses us all? Why do we spend millions of dollars a year on having our hair dyed, our wrinkles rubbed out, our faces lifted, and on synthetic roses and cream complexions? Why do we undergo the horrors of semi-starvation in order to acquire boyish and girlish figures? Why is the one surefire compliment, that invariably hits the bullseye with every man and woman, to tell them how young they look and to guess their age at twenty years under the real figure?

If youth was invariably beautiful, it would be easy to understand why we are all so determined to keep young at any cost, no matter how old we are, but not every youth is a Valentino, nor every maiden a Dolores Costello. Far from it. Taking it by and large the average of good looks at twenty is no greater than it is at forty-five or sixty-five.

Indeed, age improves the personal appearance of many people, and it is no uncommon thing to see a weedy, gawky, lanky, string-bean sort of boy develop into a man who is a real personage by the time he is forty-five. Nor is it unusual for an ugly duckling girl to turn into a glorious swan at middle age, and we all know people who blossom into beauty in their old age just because their flesh is worn away so that you can see the loveliness of their souls, that is like a light shining through an alabaster vase.

It is easily understood why middle age may be more beautiful than youth. Youth has nothing but its physical perfection of form and color to stand on, and if it lacks these it has nothing, but age has a thousand camouflages to hide its defects.

It has acquired poise and grace and charm and intelligence to substitute for beauty. It has learned how to dress and how to talk. Nobody ever notices whether a man who is a spellbinder is short or tall, or fat or thin, or has a pug nose or a Grecian profile. Nobody ever notices whether the middle-aged woman who knows how to dress, and who has fascination of manners is really beautiful, or whether she just looks so.

Nor is youth the time of life when we are most attractive to our fellow creatures. It takes time to develop and ripen and sweeten a human being as it does a fruit, and a boy and a girl compared to a mature man and woman are as a green peach to a ripe one. No matter what it may become later on, twenty is immature in its judgment, narrow in its views, limited in its experience.

Try to talk to any young boy and girl and the conversation peters out in a few minutes because they are self-centred and have nothing to talk about except themselves, and nothing worth listening to has ever happened to them. Their high moments have been a football game, or a new frock. Their tragedy, not being able to have a sports car.

But most middle-aged people are interesting, even if they only talk about themselves, because they have experienced so much; they have seen so many strange things happen in this inexplicable drama we call life. They have seen birth and death and triumph and failure. They have wept and laughed, and they have only to dip into the inexhaustible storehouse of their memories to drag forth tales that hold us enthralled listeners.

If, then, youth has no magic that insures us beauty and fascination, why then do we cling to it so frantically? Why do we so dread age? Chiefly, I think, because we labor under the superstition that we can no more escape the faults of old age than we can its grey hair and its stiff joints. We know that most old people are killjoys that everyone dreads to have around, and we cannot bear to think of the time coming when our society will be avoided and we will be endured only as a matter of duty.

The remedy for this lies in our hands. We can take the curse off of age by watching our step and refusing to fall into the vices of age. These are, roughly speaking, being repetitious, having bad manners, being arbitrary and tyrannical, being meddlesome and conceited.

There is no excuse, short of senility, why we should bore people to tears by telling them over and over again the same stories and letting everything that occurs remind us of something that happened to us forty years ago. Nor is age any alibi for a man or woman abandoning all of the amenities of civilization and saying what they please, and being as rude as they like, though many old people think that it is. Very few families are so blessed as not to have a grandmother or grandfather or an Aunt Harriet or an Uncle John who do not make life a terror for those unlucky enough to have to live with them.

Another fault which we regard as inseparable from old age is the mania for sticking fingers in everybody else's pies, and that is why the aged are persona non grata. They cannot see anybody doing anything, from giving a baby its bottle to flying an airplane, without telling them how to do it. They run all about them mad with their ceaseless advice and suggestions and that is why everybody avoids them as they would the plague.

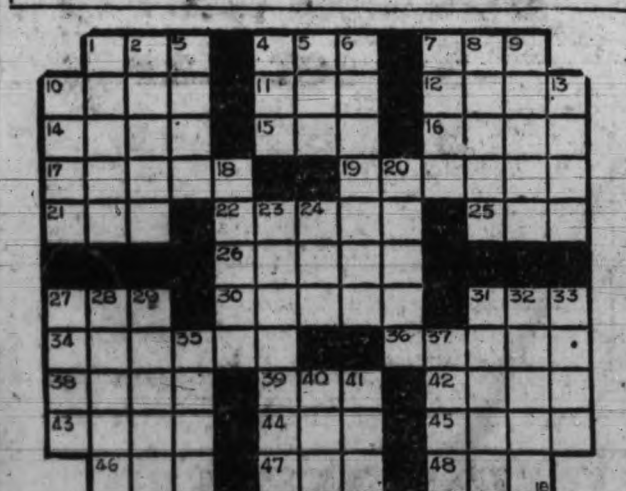

And, worst of all, the supreme egotism of age which makes old people feel that just because they have lived a certain number of years that they have some superior, bygone wisdom that makes them know better than anybody else about everything, and fitted to decide the destiny of the universe. Also that their way is the only way, no matter if it has always ended in disaster.

Now, no matter how hard we try, we cannot keep young, but we can make ourselves lovely and attractive in age, and we would get far better results if we spent more time in trying to improve our old-age technique than in trying to keep our complexions and our waistslines.

"The Man From Toronto"

A Comedy in Three Acts by Douglas Murray

We have presented quite a number of comedies since we opened our season in Victoria, and in presenting this most amusing play we feel that you will enjoy it just as much if not more than any of the others. It ran for over a year at the Royal and Duke of York Theatres, London.

AMATEUR NIGHT TO-NIGHT AT THE VARIETY THEATRE

Thrilling action, a charming love story and plenty of sparkling comedy combine to produce delightful entertainment in the three-act play, "Sundown on Honeymoon Ranch," which the Toby Letch players present at the Variety Theatre this week.

This scintillating stage success tells a story of romance in colorful Arizona, with reckless cowboys and ready aim-shooters adding picturesque and thrills. To-night will be amateur night and, as an added attraction to-morrow afternoon, Toby Letch will give away a cord of wood to some lucky patron at the matinee.

In the play, chance and an empty gasoline tank bring a party of wealthy eastern tourists to the doors of Honeymoon Ranch. One of them, handsome Jack Norton, proceeds to fall in love with Molly Bedford, daughter of the owner of the ranch.

PLENTY OF MUSIC BUT NO JAZZ IN PLAYHOUSE TALKIE

Those who anticipate hearing jazz music and blue songs in "Married in Hollywood," Fox Movietone all-talking, singing and dancing Viennese love song, will be disappointed. Oscar Straus never composed any jazz music or blue songs. J. Harold Murray and Norma Terris, both of whom recently completed extended engagements in New York musical comedy, are co-featured in this stupendous production, currently attracting at the Playhouse Theatre, that boasts of an ensemble of 250 singers and dancers, under Marcel Silver.

VETERAN CROUPIER OF MONTE CARLO HAS FILM ROLE

Constant Lafitte, veteran croupier of Monte Carlo, Biarritz and Deauville, was found among Hollywood's extras and given a role that came naturally to him in the Monte Carlo Casino scenes of "Son of the Gods," the current First National and Vitaphone production starring Richard Barthelmess, now playing at the Capitol Theatre.

Lafitte was a genuine "scoop" for Director Frank Lloyd because of the problem of recording authentically the ceaseless pronouncements of the croupiers. In the old days of the silent screen it was easy enough to secure an actor to make up as a Frenchman and play a croupier, but now that the voice is also captured it was highly important that the real thing be obtained.

THIS ENGAGEMENT LITTLE DIFFERENT FROM USUAL TYPE

It is rather surprising for a man to find that a young lady has chosen him for her future husband and even go so far as to announce the engagement to all her friends, when he is not only innocent of the matter but is not even acquainted with the girl. This is one of the situations in the silent film, "Chasing Rainbows," now playing at the Dominion Theatre. A dancing and singing ensemble of two hundred persons participated in this splendid finale number.

SPECTACULAR DANCE SCENE FEATURE OF "CHASING RAINBOWS"

One of the most spectacular technical scenes ever filmed was staged for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Chasing Rainbows," now playing at the Dominion Theatre. A dancing and singing ensemble of two hundred persons participated in this splendid finale number. The scene, staged by Sammy Lee and directed by Charles F. (Chuck) Riesner, was built about the most hit "Happy Days Are Here Again," written for the musical comedy production by Jack Yellen and Milton Ager.

CLAUDE BAILEY HAS LEADING ROLE IN "MAN FROM TORONTO"

The first offering of the Gordon McLeod Players after their holiday week will be a comedy which was one of the greatest successes of any season in London: "The Man From Toronto." It has a good story as foundation for its witty lines, and there is a freshness and charming air of gaiety about the whole play which will be seen again in a role, showing her brilliant sense of humor to great advantage. Claude Bailey, who has been vastly amusing in broad comedy parts, in "The Man From Toronto," James McGrath, as a family lawyer, has a role which gives him full scope for one of his distinguished renderings. Roland Gillet, Margaret St. George-West and the remainder of the players all have fine parts.

"FRIEND HANNAH" HAS BACKGROUND OF AUTHENTIC HISTORY

Seldom has the theatre-going public had the opportunity of viewing a play with such an interesting and authentic historical background as that of "Friend Hannah," the fifteenth annual University Players' Club production, which will appear in the Royal Victoria Theatre under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club on the evening of Monday, April 22.

In order to make the production worthy of its source, the Players' Club has spared no pains to avoid anachronisms in the staging, properties and costumes, and the Georgian period is stressed throughout.

Duncan Liberals Told Public
Should Take More Interest in Politics

Preparations For Liberal Convention at Kamloops Next Month

Special to The Times
Duncan, April 18.—The annual general meeting of the Duncan Liberal Association was held in the Odd Fellows' Hall on Wednesday evening, the president, A. I. Thomas, in the chair. Officers elected for the year are as follows: Honorary president, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, honorary vice-presidents, T. D. Patullo, C. H. O'Halloran, W. W. Walker and R. S. Cowie; president, George Savary, vice-president, J. I. Thomas and John Evans; executive: D. Hattie, R. Tait, J. Book, R. Mottishaw, James Campbell, H. W. Mackenzie and Mrs. H. Williams. The election of a secretary was left over until a future meeting.

Mr. Thomas introduced the speaker for the evening, George Pearson, M.P. for Nanaimo. Mr. Pearson addressed the meeting at some length. He urged his hearers to take more interest in politics, and in the political life of the country. "We cannot have a good government if we do not have interest on the part of four people, he said. Every time the government passes a law the people are interested in it, and the refusal of the people to take any part in politics is responsible for poor government. He explained the idea of the Government Party and the opposition, giving his hearers a clear outline of the work in the House. He explained that although the Conservative government had accused the Liberals of extravagance, yet they had three more ministers and 141 more civil servants than in the Liberal regime.

C. H. O'Halloran briefly addressed the meeting, and Major Moodie, provincial organizer for the Liberal party, also spoke, telling of the Liberal Convention which is to be held in Kamloops on May 30 and 31.

John Evans proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the speakers, seconded by R. Cowie.

The matter of electing delegates to the convention was left over for the present.

BLIND MUSICIANS TO GIVE CONCERT

Ladies' Musical Club Sponsors Entertainment By Unique Organization

British Columbia's Blind Musicians, under the leadership of A. Maninola, will give a concert at the Empress Hotel next Friday evening at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Victoria Ladies' Musical Club. They play from a repertoire musical classics worthy of sighted musicians, and their rendering of such numbers as the "Zampa" overture, selections from "Bohemian Girl," "Faust," "Maritana," are considered by musical critics to be highly commendable. This is the only orchestra composed of blind musicians on the American continent. Perseverance and determination to overcome their physical handicap has brought them to the fore in musical circles. In addition to orchestral numbers the programme will include instrumental and vocal solos by members of this organization. They have played before large and appreciative audiences in Vancouver, North Vancouver, Burnaby and New Westminster. Their object in invading the capital city is to raise funds to carry on their musical studies.
